Auto Soars Off Freeway At San Rafael

Two 19-year-old Corte Madera youths survived a spectacular accident today in San Rafael when their car, estimated by the Highway Patrol to have been going 100 miles an hour, sailed into the air off Highway 101 at 1:52 a.m.

In the course of their jarring passage, much of it through the air, the two men rode their shattered car across Villa Avenue, paralleling the freeway, to end up crumpled against a tree near Myrtle Avenue.

They ripped out chain fence along Highway 101 and sheared off a utility pole before coming to rest.

The driver, A/3 Robert Evola, U.S. Air Force, was treated in Marin General Hospital for a strained neck before being transferred Letterman General Hospital, Presidio San Francisco, where he is in good condition. He was on the last day of leave at his home at 10 Tamal Vista Boulevard before returning to Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama.

His passenger, Phillip W. Curd, of 148 Stetson Avenue, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple bruises.

Officer L. R. Thelen of the California Highway Patrol said the car broke through 78 feet of chain link fence and hurtled 155 feet mostly in air to hit the telephone pole. It somersaulted

BABY DROWNS IN POOL AT MILL VALLEY

The two-year-old son of a San Francisco couple vacationing in a rented Mill Valley home fell into a pool there last night and drowned.

Police were called to 333 Summit Avenue at 8:05 p.m. and arrived to find Robert M. Tibbets and a private doctor giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and closed heart massage to two-year-old Tod Tibbets, Tibbets' son. The child was taken to Marin General Hospital by ambulance and was dead on arrival there.

How the accident occurred is yet unknown.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Hub Driver Badly Hurt In Sausalito

A San Anselmo resident was reported in critical condition with severe head injuries at Marin General Hospital following a head-on collision at 4:33 a.m. today in Sausalito

Thomas Lee Jackson, of 130 Camino de Herra, was driving north on Bridgeway when he drove across the center dividing line near Easterby street and struck a car driven by Irene I. Graham of Merced, police reported. Her car was stopped by the impact, and Jackson's car rolled 122 feet farther up the slight grade before stopping. Neither car left skid marks.

According to police, Miss Graham said she saw Jackson veering across the line and assumed he would turn left into Easterby, but instead he drove straight into her car. Both cars were totally wrecked, police said.

Riding as passengers in her car were Hubert L. Robertson of Sallis, Miss., and Calvin V. Robertson, also of Merced. Miss Graham was treated for chest injuries at Marin General Hospital and released. Her passengers were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

Tam Valley Officials Scavenging In Style

By BRUCE COLEMAN

The grand garbage war of Tamalpais Valley took on regal aspects today when Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District directors were pressed into collection service ensconced in a black Rolls Royce.

Directors—a lawyer, an engineer, a court clerk, a school teacher and a banker—drove first to the district office at 305 Bell Lane. Following closely behind was their pickup truck.

The collectors, who call themselves "the million dollar garbage men," got out, went to the home of H. Koolhoven at 304 Bell Lane.grabbed the Koolhoven garbage can, and emptied it into the truck. The board then dusted off their gloves and returned to their Rolls for the next "pickup."

"It was felt," explained director Gale E. Bishel, "that the status which we have suddenly attained by reason of the million dollar lawsuit indicates that we must act in such a manner. A lesser vehicle than a Rolls would be beneath this position."

The district has been conducting emergency service all week, with Arthur L. Crebassa, the school teacher director, working steady.

This followed cut-off of garbage collection by Mill Valley Refuse Service July 22 after the sanitary district board agreed to a contract with Henry's Service of Stinson Beach commencing Oct. 1.

The district has been deluged with telephone calls including calls from 81 persons who claim they did not receive collection service between Tuesday and Thursday even though they had paid for service through Sept. 30 from Mill Valley Refuse.

"We are here to take care of any emergencies which may arise," said Bishel.

The other four "million dollar" scavengers are lawyer Francis M. Small Jr., engineer Harry Sutcliffe, banker Ralph

Airline Strike Settled; Johnson Defends Raise

Guideline Reported Exceeded

WASHINGTON (AP)—Striking airline machinists won an estimated 7 per cent hike in wages and fringe benefits in the White House settlement with five major airlines, it was learned today.

While a tight lid of official secrecy remained on details of the agreement President Johnson wooed from negotiators last night, informed sources said the three-year contract provides annual wage hikes of 18 cents, 19 cents and 19 cents for top mechanics now earning $3.52 per hour, plus gains in fringe benefits.

APPROVAL DOUBTS

The 56-cent-an-hour increase in wages was 3 cents more than the union's last reported demand. It was learned the union accepted the higher wage boost in lieu of some of its earlier demands for other benefits.

Fears remained among government, union and management officials over the outcome of Sunday's vote by the 35,000 strikers.

The five airlines — United, Eastern, Northwest, Trans World and National — will remain grounded until the outcome of the vote is known Sunday night. Union locals have been instructed to telephone the results of their elections by 6 p.m. their local time to the union headquarters in Washington.

Meanwhile, a dispute between the Airlines Pilots Assn. and Trans World Airlines erupt-

SIX NORTH MARIN FIRES CONFESSED

Army Clamps Secrecy On Firebug Probe; Bales Declares He Plans To Investigate

By ROBERT STREBEIGH

A 25-year-old staff sergeant, stationed at the Army's Two Rock Ranch Station in Sonoma County, confessed yesterday to setting six fires in the Chileno Valley area of Marin in June and July.

The valley was one of the principal areas of incendiary activity in this county cited by Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom in a report Thursday to the State Division of Forestry.

Bloom credited the "fine cooperation of the Army people" at the Sonoma station with helping to find the man said to be responsible for six out of nine recently set fires in the valley.

After helping to secure the confession, however, the Army sought to withhold all relevant information from the public and to keep it a family affair within the service.

When the Independent-Journal questioned officers at the station, their reaction was primarily to insist on being told how the paper had learned of the confession.

The identity of the man was withheld, an army spokesman said, because "others were involved" and disclosure of his name would "interfere with the investigation.'

Chief Bloom said this came as a surprise to him. "I got the impression he was a loner," Bloom said, "but if there are others up there running around setting fires I want to know about it."

Another explanation was offered by Asst. Forest Ranger Ralph Matteoli, with whom Bloom had consulted about the rash of fires. Matteoli said the Army told him they wanted the matter kept quiet out of concern for the sergeant's family. "We were told they didn't want any publicity on this, because the boy has a problem," Matteoli said.

Bloom, however, said he had the man's name and would turn it over to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for whatever legal action Bales felt appropriate.

"This is a serious felony," said Bloom. "You don't hush up a thing like this, or anything else the public has a right to know."

Bloom said the man was known to have "had a fire problem" in another state when he was 14 years old and thought this might be the "problem"

Bay Gun Range Protest Growing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Army Corps of Engineers has received about 50 protests against the Navy's proposal to conduct machine gun practice in San Pablo Bay.

The Navy plans to train patrol boat crews bound for Viet Nam in the shallows off Petaluma and Sonoma creeks.

A Corps of Engineers spokesman said today that the protests and the Navy's request for a permit would be considered at a staff meeting sometime next week. The final decision must be made by the Secretary of the Army.

Giant Bombers Blast Border Neutral Zone

Anti-Aircraft Fire Confirms Illegal Red Activities

SAIGON (UPI) —U.S. heavy bombers today penetrated the neutral Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Viet Nam for the first time and pounded Communist gun positions and troop fortifications there.

U.S. military spokesmen said Guam-based B-52 Stratofortresses carried out a "moderate sized attack" at dawn about midway across the 12-mile zone established as a no-man's land by the 1954 Geneva Conference.

PROTEST EXPECTED

The U.S. raids seemed sure to trigger a propaganda barrage from the Communist world, but the U.S. spokesmen noted Communist troops have been using the area in violation of the international agreements.

(In Washington, the Pentagon said it had no immediate comment on the raids).

OTHER ACTION

Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps bombers flew 100 missions over the Communist North yesterday and struck 10 oil depots through a barrage of antiaircraft fire. One Navy plane was shot down and its pilot listed as missing.

American pilots carried out 485 sorties—a single attack by one plane—against Communist targets in South Viet Nam Friday, killing an estimated 148 Communists and damaging or destroying 172 Viet Cong structures.

The B-52 attacks were made in support of the two-week old "Operation Hastings," the giant U.S. Marine sweep just south of the DMZ that has already claimed an estimated 1,000 Communist dead.

The 1954 Geneva Conferences that divided Viet Nam into North and South established the six mile wide Demilitarized Zone between the two countries, installed a peace-keeping team that has proved largely

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

U Thant Fears War May Spread

MOSCOW (AP) — U.N. Secretary - General U Thant said today after his talks with Soviet leaders that he is "increasingly convinced that the Viet Nam war will develop into a major war if the present trend continues."

The war could "spill over the frontiers," Thant told a news conference at Moscow Airport as he wound up his visit and headed back to New York.

Thant declined to say whether he meant it would involve the United States and the Soviet Union in direct conflict. He did indicate that the Soviet attitude toward the Viet Nam conflict did not change during his visit.

U-2 Pilot's Body In Andes

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — A Bolivian military honor guard stood watch today in a simple chapel in the Bolivian Andes over the remains of an American U-2 pilot whose "routine flight" from Louisiana ended in flames on a mountainside more than 3,500 miles away.

The remains of the pilot, Capt. Robert D. Hickman, 32, of Alexandria, La., were found among the wreckage of the high altitude spy plane in remote south central Bolivia. The press office in La Paz said farmers in the area witnessed the crash Thursday.

Military authorities took the remains of the pilot to Ariente Chapel not far from the crash and mounted an honor guard.

The pilot apparently lost consciousness on a flight for the Strategic Air Command which presumably included picture-taking over Cuba.

Flying on its autopilot, the plane continued south instead of making a planned turn between Sarasota and Key West, Fla.

It flew south for half the length of the South American continent. When the fuel ran out it went into a glide and crashed.

Court Bans Racist Rallies

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Legal action has stalled racist rallies in Baltimore, but a white supremacist warns, "You'll be seeing more and hearing more of us."

Sheriff Pelz

Negro and white youths threw bottles, rocks and metal pipes at each other in a 20-minute battle last night.

A 33-year-old man and a 41-year-old woman received minor cuts and were treated at a hospital. Police reported one arrest.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Frank J. Pelz served an injunction against the National States Rights Party forbidding rallies.

Five persons were charged with rioting after white youths roamed through Negro neighborhoods Thursday night following an anti-Negro rally by the party.

The warning that more would be heard from the party came from Connie Lynch, an itinerant preacher from San Bernardino, Calif., who was one of the five persons charged with rioting in presentments returned by the Baltimore grand jury.

"We haven't got a damn choice," said Richard B. Norton, Maryland coordinator of the group and one of those indicted for rioting.

"How the hell could I cause a riot that's been going on for years?" Lynch asked at a news conference.

Lynch, described in a handbill as "America's most exciting racist speaker," told Thursday night's rally, "I'm not inciting you to riot, I'm inciting you to victory. The nine stooges on the Supreme Court will have to be taken, tried and hanged for treason and don't think this won't happen," he shouted.

Negroes held a rally of their own last night but it was sparsely attended and broke up quickly. Militant Negro leaders told the crowd of about 100 to buy arms for defense.

Flier In Hospital

SAN DIEGO (AP) —Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler, the first U.S. flier to escape from North Viet Nam, is at Balboa Naval Hospital in good condition, the Navy confirms. Dengler, 28, of Pacifica, was admitted Wednesday night for treatment of malnutrition and foot trouble. He was rescued July 20 after a 23-day ordeal evading his captors.

Union Gift Bought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An illegal contribution of $50,000 to Gov. Edmund G. Brown's reelection campaign has been charged in a Superior Court suit against officials of AFL-CIO Operating Engineers Local 12. The money was taken from the union's general funds without membership consent, said the suit filed this week by union member Rollie Peterson.

Nurse Pay Bargaining Halts Until Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negotiations aimed at averting a walkout by nearly 2,000 San Francisco Bay Area nurses stalled last night and were recessed until Monday.

(Marin nurses have agreed to defer their demands for higher pay and improved working conditions pending outcome of Bay Area negotiations.)

More than two-thirds of the 2,700 registered nurses at 33 hospitals have submitted resignations to be effective Wednesday unless an interim salary agreement is reached.

"No progress" was the summation of Andy Susac, spokesman for the California Nurses Assn.

Susac said that neither the nurses nor hospital representatives had altered their interim salary proposals.

Nurses had said they would settle for increases of $160 to $210 a month, thus making pay range from $600 to $720, depending on experience. The hospitals had said that a $60 interim raise already has been granted and they did not intend to make a further increase. Pay now ranges between $500 and $570 a month.

Nurses at 10 Santa Clara Valley hospitals demanded a $200 monthly salary increase, which would bring starting pay to $615.

In San Mateo, Mills Memorial Hospital directors approved a $65 monthly increase in starting salaries. This brought pay scales to $505 to $580 and will increase room rates by $2 to $4 a day.

Bomb Plot Foiled

SAIGON (UPI) — Demolition experts yesterday dismantled a 14-pound plastic bomb minutes before it was set to go off in front of a house occupied by U.S. soldiers in nearby Gia Dinh, police said today.

French Rails Lose

PARIS (UPI) — France's state-run railway system announced yesterday it planned to close 120 local lines totalling more than 3,000 miles as an economy measure. The system lost $300 million in 1965 and this year's losses were expected to be even higher.

New Drug Ban Asked

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — A law banning possession of datura, a squash-like plant whose seed pods cause hallucinations has been called for at a meeting of the State Senate Judiciary Committee, by Ventura County Dist. Atty. Woodruff Deem. Datura, which grows wild in the Santa Barbara area, induces intoxication and hallucinations, but also makes the user violently ill, Deem said.

Congressmen Rap U.S. Tax Threat To Sierra Club

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Michigan congressman revealed yesterday that at least 20 members of Congress have challenged the Internal Revenue Service to try to prevent them from deducting contributions to the Sierra Club from their 1966 come tax."

Rep. Paul H. Todd Jr., D-Mich., said he was among those who had written IRS Commissioner Sheldon S. Cohen to express "grave concern" over a threat to revoke the tax exempt status of the San Francisco-based conservationist organization.

The IRS challenged the Sierra Club's tax status after the group ran a series of advertisements protesting plans for building two hydroelectric dams in the Grand Canyon.

The letters from individual congressmen actually began with Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., who urged other members of Congress to send similar letters.

Ottinger, who wrote Cohen last week, advised the IRS Commissioner that he had made a $10 contribution to the club and that "I intend to deduct this contribution from my 1966 income tax."

Ottinger said the IRS threat to revoke the Sierra Club's tax-exempt status was "insidious" conservation group dependent on tax-deductible donations from the public.

"The question is not whether one supports or opposes the proposed controversial Grand Canyon dams which the Sierra Club is sighting," he said. "It is whether or not the Internal Revenue Service ought properly to be used as a tool to influence public policy, or whether its only proper function is to carry out tax policy set by Congress."

State Fights Injunction On Abortion Case

WEST LOS ANGELES (UPI) —An indirect initiative petition aimed at overturning anti-abortion laws and imposing a few restrictions was being circulated today by the California Legalize Abortion.

It is still too early to tell how the petition was doing, executive director Don Fedrick said yesterday.

"Our feeling, however, is that we will be defeated by opposition lobbyists in the legislature," he said, describing the opposition as church and religious organizations.

The CLA's position on abortion, Federick said, was to legalize it in cases where the expectant mother felt she was unprepared or unwilling to "rear a child properly."

In a related matter, the state attorney general has asked the California Supreme Court to throw out its writ prohibiting a hearing on two doctors accused of performing illegal abortions.

The request was filed in San Francisco yesterday in concurrence with orders of the Supreme court, which last week issued a writ of mandate against a hearing by the state Board of Medical examiners.

The state said yesterday that the Supreme court had no jurisdiction and that the petition to postpone the hearing "does not state facts sufficient . . . for a cause of action."

The attorney general's office denied that the administrative board hearing sought specifically revocation or suspension of the licenses of Drs. John P. Shively and Seymour Smith.

They are two of nine doctors charged with performing therapeutic abortions in violation of California's strict abortion laws.

Packaging Truth Bill Faces Tough Sledding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of so-called "truth in packaging" legislation are considering asking the House Commerce Committee to shelve the controversial measure.

Supporters of the bill admit it is facing serious difficulty in the Commerce Committee.

The legislation's chief purpose, administration supporters say, is to enable consumers to make an informed choice by making it easier to compare prices of products. The controversy centers on a provision to enable the government to limit the number of different weights in which a product could be sold.

At least four Democrats on the committee who favor the bill say this provision is "in trouble." Other parts of the legislation, less controversial, would require clear and accurate labeling of consumer products and curb "cents off" promotions and such size designations as "jumbo," "giant" and "large."

The committee has 40 different versions of the legislation under consideration.

Yesterday a witness told the committee a producer of a mashed potato mix concealed a 36.6 per cent price increase by reducing the amount of potatoes in the box while keeping the price of the box constant.

Helen Ewing Nelson of Mill Valley, California's state consumer counsel, said the result was an increase from 82 cents per pound to $1.12 per pound in cost to the consumer.

Mill Valley Woman Injured In Collision

Joanne Swallow, 33, of Mill Valley suffered a broken left arm in a two-car rear end collision on Highway 101 at the Alto Overpass at 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that her car struck one driven by Charles E. Neal, 57, of 27 Kinross Drive, San Rafael, which had stopped in northbound traffic. Miss Swallow of 204 East Blithedale Avenue was treated in Marin General Hospital.

Sanitary Board To Adopt Budget

Corte Madera Sanitary District board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Corte Madera Town Hall, will adopt a budget and fix a district tax rate for fiscal 1967, according to recording secretary Mrs. Portia Fitzgerald.

During budget discussions, the board has stated it will maintain the district's present operating tax rate of 89 cents per $100 assessed valuation. County supervisors set the rate for bond redemption. Last year that rate was 31 cents, bringing the district's total tax to $1.20.

GARBAGE

P. Kellogg and Bishel, a court clerk.

Mill Valley Refuse Service filed a million-dollar punitive damage complaint against the district Thursday while the district filed for an injunction to force the garbage company to service all its district customers until Oct. 1.

Bishel said 81 customers had telephoned the district office to claim their service was cut off although they had paid.

"I haven't had my garbage picked up since Tuesday," Mrs. Marian Descaro of 809 Everest Court, told the Independent-Journal yesterday.

"My regular pickup is on Tuesday. When I called the garbage company I first got the answering service. Then I called from work in San Francisco and a woman said, 'Yes, you're paid; we'll pick it up tomorrow.'" Mrs. Descaro said.

"They didn't do it. It's still sitting there." We saw garbage men on the way to work on Thursday when they picked up my neighbor's garbage. They missed us."

"I called Tuesday," reported Mrs. Peter Wolffe of 905 Chamberlain Court. "Wednesday they didn't come. They did pick it up on Thursday, saying they were changing their schedule around."

Lewis Figone, vice president of Mill Valley Refuse Service, could not be reached yesterday for comment.

Between use of Henry's Service and the district's pickup truck all unpaid pickups have been taken care of this week, Bishel said.

Asked if any of this garbage had been buried, Bishel replied that Henry Lacaze, owned of Henry's Service, has a contract to dump garbage in a dump in West Marin.

Bishel said the district has been unable to obtain a list of customers who have not paid from Mill Valley Refuse and, he added, we must respond to phone calls and prevent garbage from becoming a health problem.

another 135 feet end over end and struck the tree.

Thelen said a headlight and some shattered glass were imbedded in the eight feet above the ground.

Thelen estimated their speed at anywhere up to a 100 miles per hour, but said Evola would be cited only for going more than 65. A closer determination of their speed, Thelen said, will require mathematical calculations based on distances and damage.

Curd told Thelen that "the next thing I knew we were sliding toward the fence. We hit the fence and started to roll, the next thing I remember was glass breaking."

When Thelen arrived Evola was leaning on top of the totally wrecked car and Curd had gone to a nearby home to phone. The 1965 Dodge belonged to Curd's father, Phillip B. Curd.

The hurtling car awakened Vernon Sulier, Radio KTIM staff member, who lives a half-block away. Sulier said the car sounded as if it were "going end over end before it took a final bounce and hit the tree."

The demolished car was wrapped into a Vee shape when it hit the tree and landed on its top.

Curd told Thelen that they were returning from a party in San Francisco.

mentioned by the Army.

Another view of the Army's position was taken by Charles E. Green, Solano County fire warden and fire coordinator in Fairfield. Marin is one of 16 counties from Carquinez Straits north to the Oregon border under Green's jurisdiction — in the event of a major conflagration or disaster — as regional fire coordinator of Civil Defense.

Green expressed the fear that if the matter were left entirely to the Army by the civil authorities that the "Army may just quietly give him a discharge and turn an unidentified firebug loose on the community."

Bloom said the solution to the six fires, which ranged up to a quarter-acre in size, followed a conference on the Chileno fires, two weeks ago, attended by himself, two representatives of the state forestry service and Deputy Sheriff Sidney Stinson.

When their investigation turned to the Army station, Bloom said, officers there cooperated in checking the working hours of personnel and comparing the times of the fires with absences from the station.

The inquiry led to the sergeant, who then confessed Bloom said.

Set Conference For Dow Wilson Murder Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —Superior Court Judge Norman Elkington will hold a pre-trial conference Monday with attorneys in the Dow Wilson murder case, scheduled for trial Aug. 8.

Wilson, a labor leader, was shotgunned to death last April as he left a painters union meeting. Five men have been indicted for conspiracy to murder.

The pre-trial conference will concern the admissibility of some recordings, rules for press coverage and a possible delay of the trial, according to lawyers.

The defendants are Sacramento painting contractors Max Ward and Norman Call; Clyde Simmonds, Sacramento, a contractors' association employee; Oakland accountant Carl Black and San Francisco tavern owner Richard Rock, a Mill Valley resident.

Pre-dawn Arrest Follows Battle

Richard D. Blanchfield, 27, of 149 Novato Street, San Rafael was arrested early today by San Rafael Police on charges of disturbing the peace, assault, resisting arrest and battery on a police officer.

Patrolman Martin J. Conlin said that Blanchfield became abusive when he arrived to investigate a neighbor's complaint of noise at 1:13 a.m. Conlin said that when he and officer Robert Martin attempted to subdue Blanchfield he attacked them.

Blanchfield, who was treated in Marin General Hospital for a scalp cut, was booked in Marin County jail. Bail was set at $1,000.

Clausen Pens Bill To Boost Security Pay

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, Calif., said today he would introduce a bill providing for automatic cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits.

The Congressman said his bill would provide for a 3 per cent increase in benefits whenever the cost of living rises by 3 per cent.

Clausen said he would introduce the bill today if the long debate on the Civil Rights Act keeps the House of Representatives in session today. If not, he plans to introduce the bill Monday.

He said there is a precedent for automatic increases in the Federal Salaries Act of 1962, which provides for an automatic increase in Civil Service retirement pensions when there has been an increase of 3 per cent or more in the consumer retail price index.

"I believe this legislation, when passed, will focus attention on the problems of our senior citizens that are caused by inflation and serve to remind the Congress and the executive branch of their responsibility to maintain sound, non-inflationary fiscal policies," Clausen added.

inadequate and barred troops from the area.

U.S. spokesmen said the B-52s hit midway over the southern three-mile half of the zone. The bombers hit troop areas and fortifications, 26 gun positions, ammunition dumps and weapons storage sites—none of which should have been in the zone according to the Geneva agreement.

American military men have long accused the Communists of using the DMZ as a sanctuary as well as a springboard, in much the same way as they reportedly have used Laos and Cambodia.

Extend Search For Stilwell As Debris Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The search for the DO-3 carrying Brig. Gen. Joseph Stilwell was prolonged today because debris was spotted in the area of the Pacific where his plane disappeared six days ago.

The 311-foot cutter Dexter was criss-crossing the area while a four-engine C-130 flew overhead. The cutter Taney also was watching for signs of the missing plane as it slowly headed back for port.

The sighting took place about 400 miles southwest of here. The search plane dropped two smoke bombs in the area to aid the search for the debris.

The twin-engine plane carrying Stilwell and two friends disappeared Sunday while on a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu. The craft was last reported 550 miles southwest of here.

Youngster Hurt In Collision

Twelve-year-old Ronald Webb of San Rafael was injured in a two-car rear end collision on Grand Avenue at 3rd Street, San Rafael, at 9:07 a.m. yesterday.

Webb, of 182 Belvedere Street, was treated in Marin General Hospital for scalp cuts. He was a passenger in a car driven by Woodrow E. Slater, 48, of the same address.

The San Rafael Police reported that Slater had stopped his northbound car for traffic when it was struck by one driven by Alema R. Payne, 16, of 129 Irvin Street, San Rafael.

Teenager Thrown As Tire Blows

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth escaped serious injury when he was thrown from his car on Wolfe Grade near Wolfe Glen Way, near San Rafael at 8:55 p.m. yesterday.

Christopher E. Dlugokenski, of 51 Martens Boulevard was treated in Marin General Hospital for a head cut.

Dlugokenski told the California Highway Patrol that he was driving south when his left rear tire blew causing his car to swerve off the road and into a hillside.

Highway 101 Paving Job Put Off A Week

Repaving on Highway 101 at the Corte Madera Interchange, scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, has been postponed for approximately one week.

The repaving will entail temporarily closing alternate on and off ramps at the interchange.

STRIKE

ed over the issue of pay for the period planes were grounded by the machinists strike.

A TWA spokesman said the pilots association had refused its offer to settle the issue by grievance procedure or arbitration.

"This settlement will not be inflationary," Johnson said in announcing the agreement in a nationwide television-radio broadcast barely 12 hours after calling negotiators in the 23-day strike to the White House.

His comment reflected the touchy question of the agreement's economic impact, but the government's biggest worry at the moment was to win the ratification vote.

But no planes can fly until the proposal is accepted by the union members who have thrown contract agreements back in the teeth of their leaders in the past.

The President noted his 3.2 per cent wage hike guideline policy left room for bigger hikes in special circumstances.

"The fact that productivity has advanced so rapidly in the airline industry means, according to all participants in the settlement, that this settlement will not be inflationary," Johnson said.

Some observers saw this as a hedge against later claims that the union had won its economic argument that workers deserve a fatter share of airlines profits.

"This settlement will not contribute to any increase in prices," Johnson said.

Before the settlement, the union had demanded wage increases up to 53 cents an hour over 36 months for top mechanics who now earn $3.52 per hour.

The airlines' last reported money offer was roughly 50 cents an hour over 42 months.

President Johnson hadn't finished announcing settlement of the airlines strike on radio and television when callers began to telephone reservation offices.

The President was still talking to the nation when the switchboards began lighting up.

But airports still looked quiet. Servicemen dozed on seats at Newark Airport and only a handful of personnel serviced the thin trickle of travelers at New York's La Guardia Airport.

The $3 billion fleet of 735 aircraft grounded during the strike had been serviced around the clock during the walkout and was reported ready to fly with only small delays.

New Northgate Area Rezoning Up For Hearing

The San Rafael City Council will have a public hearing Monday on zoning a new part of the Northgate Shopping Center as a commercial zone at 8 p.m. at the old City Hall.

A public hearing will also be held on protests from the Terra Linda Valley Property Owners Assn. on the new section's proposed store signs.

Final adoption of city ordinances prohibiting throwing litter in public places and requiring San Rafael residents to have all wet garbage removed by the licensed city garbage collector is scheduled.

The council will consider an agreement between the city and Marin Municipal Water District on Santa Margarita Valley Park.

Public Hearing Set On Rezoning Proposal

San Anselmo Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. Monday at City Hall on a proposal to rezone three lots on Hilldale Avenue and one lot on Forbes Avenue from commercial to duplex residential.

The commission itself is the applicant on these rezonings. It suggested the rezonings since all lots are in residential areas and are now being used for duplexes. They are all near United Market on Red Hill Avenue.

Marin Doctor Granted Probation On Charge

A Tiburon physician was sentenced yesterday in San Francisco to a six-month suspended jail sentence, fined $276 and placed on probation for one year for shoplifting three pairs of underdrawers worth $6.87.

Dr. Harry Bogart, 62, was was found outside a downtown department store last month with the drawers. He was convicted July 8 and sentenced yesterday by Municipal Court Judge Leo R. Friedman. For six years Dr. Bogart has been director of internal medicine for the Military Sea Transport Service at Fort Mason. Married and the father of two children, he lives at 93 Rockhill Road.

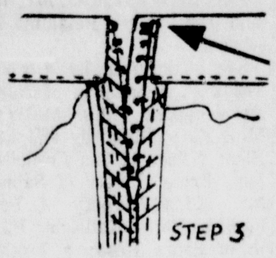
SEW SIMPLE

Secrets Simplify Zipper Placement

By EUNICE FARMER

I seem to have so much trouble trying to get the facing to look neat at the top of a zipper. Is there an easy way to do this? MRS. M.J.



DEAR MRS. M.J.

The one secret that can help you the most is to remember to place the key or tab of the zipper ½ inch below the neckline seam. This will give you ample room to mitre the ends of the facing neatly and also room for the much needed hook and eye at the top of the zipper closing.

I did find a beautiful new way to finish the facing that perhaps will be more simple for most of you. Of course, you know that I always prefer a lapped zipper closing, the kind you use for side seams of dresses and skirts. Just pretend you are doing it on the side seam and shift the same operations to the center back. This will avoid confusion.

1. Stitch the front facing to the back facings at the underarm seams, press them open. Turn in 1 inch on the left back facing, press flat. Turn in ¼ inch on the lower edge (un-notched edge of facing) and machine stitch to finish the raw edge.

2. With right sides together, stitch the facing to the entire neck edge, matching all the notches and important marks for a perfect fitting. Don't forget to grade your seams and clip to the seamline any inner curves to achieve a flat smooth facing.

3. Insert zipper in the back opening as usual. I always attach the facing before the zipper. You will find that it is very simple to finish the top edge of the facing. You won't need to mitre the corner because of the 1 inch turn you made in step one.

4. Slip stitch the edges of the facing to the zipper tape. Last but not least, sew your hook and eye on the finished top edge.

Is it necessary to line and underline a summer cotton suit? I have been doing this to my suits. Yet for summer, I don't your column and love the results. Yet for sumer, I don't want a suit that is too hot for comfort. Please help us. MRS. B. C.

DEAR MRS. B. C.:

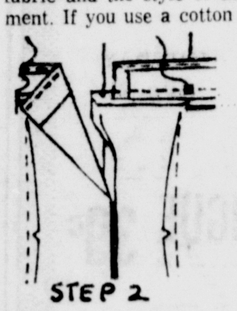
Once again may I repeat, it all depends on the weight of the fabric and the style of the garment. If you use a cotton tapestry, seersucker or linen, in other words, fabric that has a great deal of firmness and body, it will not be necessary to underline the garment fabric.

As to lining, this is optional. If you do line a summer suit, use a lawn, voile, printed or solid color, or one of the batiste cotton prints. If the garment is going to be washed, be sure to check that all fabrics and interfacings have been preshrunk. It is usually best to use interfacing for the front sections as well as the collar to retain shape.

If you aren't lining your suit, you should finish the seams. You may turn under the edge of the seam and machine stitch them close to the fold, or bind them in a cotton bias binding. Armholes are best if trimmed fairly close and then bound.

Mrs. Mildred Ware, Tulsa, Okla., is the winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for her suggestion:

"Since the latest Mad Mod fashion craze is still going strong this idea will make a big hit with girls of all ages. Go through your boxes of dress scraps and make the latest styles in dresses, blouses, pajamas, beach shifts and whatever. Use one color for the sleeve, another sleeve in check, pockets in polka dot, skirt in stripes, yokes in contrasting colors, in other words, let your imagination run wild. The 'kookier' it looks, the more 'in' it is."



I am only 16 years old and want to sew very much. But there are some things I just can't seem to learn to do. One of them is set-in sleeves. Isn't there any easy way to do this? I can't keep wearing everything sleeveles. —JUDY G.

DEAR JUDY:

I usually don't vary the methods of construction, but when we teach our teen-agers in our school, we have worked out a simple way of setting in sleeves that works great at your age. When you have mastered this method, you may proceed with my advanced method.

Leave the underarm seam of the sleeve and the garment open. Machine stitch one line of stitching ⅝s inch from the outer edge of the entire armhole of your dress. Next, clip this seam every inch or so, almost down to the stitching line.

Now, pin the sleeve into the armhole, matching all marks, shoulder, notches in front and back. The clips in the armhole will release enough fabric that it will usually fit the cap of the sleeve perfectly without having any puckers appear.

After the sleeve has been stitched, you may stitch the underarm seam of the dress and continue with the underarm seam of the sleeve in one stitching. This will not give you quite the rounded cap you want later. It is a sleeve that looks more like the ready-made ones found in blouses and dresses. It will work and is much better than having a lot of puckers. Try it.

For those of you who have not sent for my detailed sleeve instructions, do so today. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents to Sew Simple in care of the Independent-Journal. I will send you my leaflet called "All About Sleeves."

Day Of Drycleaner Is Doomed If Paper Dresses Catch On

By MARY WALLER

GLENDALE (AP)—Glue, cellophane tape and erasers should be sold as part of the package now that women are wrapping themselves in paper that designers have labeled fashionable and the fire department has stamped flame-proof.

The day of the drycleaner is doomed if the new paper dresses catch feminine fancy—and hold up under the strain of the feminine figure.

SMUDGES NOW can be erased, tears can be taped and gussets glued. And when a dress is "done for," after a dozen wearings, it is simply tossed into the trash.

After attending a Beverly Hills showing of the latest in paper fashions, worn by toothpick-thin models who remained standing at all times I couldn't help but wonder:

Will the average paper-clad female part with her paper before her paper parts with her? Knowing how women hate to toss out clothes before they have "worn their money's worth" and that these dresses sell in one store for "a mere" $15 each, it seems the seams may go before the dress.

I HAVE VISIONS of the parting of the pulp during a social gathering. The occurrence certainly will attract more stares than the Sunday funnies. But the victim can remain calm through all the wear and tear with the knowledge that at least her dress is flame-proof.

She can, that is, until some doubting Thomas wants to make sure it is a flame-proof. There is one in every crowd and there was one at the fashion showing and even "that little spot where it won't show" will smolder and smoke although it won't burst into flames.

Paper-clad mothers of small children will have to be especially careful. If the frock is left unguarded, the inscriptions of a crayon-wielding 3-year-old may decorate her backside.

AND TO LEAVE the dress beside the telephone would be a disaster. Telephones are conducive to doodling and paper is what one doodles on, and paper dresses with doodles are simply not "in."

The mother who leaves part of her paper peeking through the closet door will rue it. Chances are she will find small dirty handprints on her new frock. And how can you punish a child when he "thought it was a paper towel?"

It is also safe to assume that do-it-yourselfers by the dozens will take scissors, pinking shears, shelfpaper or wallpaper in hand in a priceles effort to copy the paper styles.

NEWSPAPERS will have a new found function. Headlines will spread across bodices while editorials flow into circular skirts. Weather reports will reach an all-time low as hemlines herald news of humidity.

Will a husband, home after a hard day at the office, understand when he asks for the paper and his wife replies, "I'm wearing it"?

And will he understand her necessity for up-to-date fashions when he wants to go out and she says, "I can't go. All I have to wear is yesterday's news"?

DEBS AT POOLSIDE LUNCHEON

Maloney-Squires Wedding In Mission

Karen Lee Squires of San Rafael became the bride of William Patrick Maloney of Fairfax in a double ring ceremony at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lanora Inskeep of San Rafael.

Given in marriage by her brother, Virgil Squires, the bride wore a full length gown of white satin.

Preceding the bride down the aisle in gowns of star green linen were Linda Bialkin of San Quentin as maid of honor and bridesmaids, Diane Ashoff of Mill Valley and Dolly Maloney, the bridegroom's sister of Fairfax.

Kathleen Clayton of Fairfax was flower girl.

James Maloney of Woodacre was best man for his brother. Ushering guests to their seats were Lenard Clayton of Fairfax and David Riddan of Belvedere.

The bride was graduated from Novato High School and is employed with Fairchild Corp.

The bridegroom, son of Mr and Mrs. Wiley S. Maloney of Fairfax, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and is serving with the Merchant Marines. Mrs. Lenard Clayton of Fairfax is also his sister.

Following a wedding trip to the Grand Canyon, the couple will live in San Rafael.

Rummage Sale Set

The San Rafael Rainbow Mother's Club will have a rummage sale on Thursday and Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Boy Scout Hall on Second and A Sts., S.R. Mrs. Winn Pullin of San Rafael is chairman.

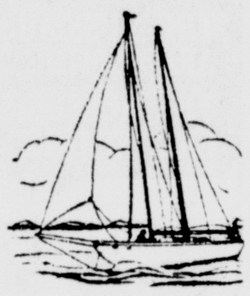
Yachts Moonlight Marathon

By MOLLY MARIN

One hundred and thirty-eight yachts will be out for San Francisco Yacht Club's Midnight Moonlight Marathon, which starts at 5:30 p.m. today off Pt. Knox. After a 38-mile bay course to Hunter's Point and the channel marker off Pinole and back to Belvedere, the voyagers will hurry back to the SFYC clubhouse for coffee. The reason that they will be hurrying is that if they get back before the bar closes, they will be able to have Irish coffee.



MRS. LUCRETIA KAYS Hanson of Mill Valley will be honored at an 85th birthday dinner tonight at a Marin restaurant. Hosts will be her children and their families who are Dr. Karl Hanson and Mrs. William Howell (Amy Hanson) of San Francisco; Mrs. Lucretia Little of Mill Valley; Harry Hanson of San Anselmo and Mrs. William Randolph (Flora Hanson) of of San Francisco, who will be unable to be present.

There are nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Hanson was born on Aug. 2, 1881, in Memphis, Mo. For 33 years she was society editor of the Mill Valley Weekly newspaper and is widely known as an authority on Mill Valley history.

STILL ANOTHER lunar event is the Lido Fleet's moonlight sail planned tonight in Belvedere. The sailors will meet at the Ivan Meitus home on the lagoon after the sails are furled.

CONSUL GENERAL and Mrs. Adolfo Dominguez will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drath of Kentfield at the Fiesta Mexicana performance tomorrow afternoon at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, San Rafael. Following the concert they will be the dinner guests of the Draths. Mrs. Carl Riznek, first vice president of Music Chest, will introduce the consul general during intermission.

THIRTY SIX of the Belvedere Lagoon's indomitable Pudle-pesher Corps met for dinner at the San Francisco Yacht Club yesterday and then went out to pudle-pesh the moonlight night away in the unsleepy lagoon. They returned to the Samuel Mann home for post-peshing hospitality. Mrs. Mann and Mrs. Jack Clarke made arrangements for the dinner party.

A MISCELLANEOUS bridal shower and luncheon was held today at the home of Mrs. Griffith MacDonald of Mill Valley honoring Deborah Hildreth.

Debbie, daughter of Mrs. Frederica Hildreth of Mill Valley, will be married at the Stoehr Ranch in Napa on Sept. 4 to Melville E. (Scotty) Mills, also of Mill Valley.

Honored guests at the shower were Debbie's grandmother, Mrs. Melville Erskine of Mill Valley.

Invited guests were the mothers of Debbie and Scotty and Mesdames Whitney Robbins, Thomas Gillespie, Blyth Adams, Gordon Smith, Reginald Hurd, Edward W. Hildreth III, Charles Lindsay, Ross Ashley, William Sigler and Stephen Bryant.

Unable to attend was Mrs. MacDonald's daughter, Shelley, who is attending summer session at University of California at Santa Barbara.

MRS. CHARLOTTE MURPHY and her sister, Mrs. James Reynolds, formerly of Tiburon, but presently a resident of Montreal, were among family members who attended a family reunion at the home of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sylvester Koontz in Minneapolis, Minn., earlier this month.

WORD FROM Mrs. Charles P. Davies (Elizabeth Banning) of Novato from the Halekulani on Waikiki says it is one of the unspoiled places left in the islands. Her niece, Lisa Hollenbeck, is with her. They are also touring Maui and Hawaii. Neighbors of the Davies, the J. E. Countrymans of Indian Valley Ranch, made arrangements for them to tour the Del Monte pineapple plantation. Mr. Countryman is president of California Packing Co.

A FRIDAY HOUSEWARMING will welcome Mrs. Virginia Kibbee back to Tiburon. Virginia's sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Donovan O. Cooke, will entertain 40 friends at cocktails and buffet supper at Mrs. Kibbee's new apartment, which boasts a beautiful marine view. A former resident of Belvedere, Virginia has been living in San Franicsco for several years.

AMELIA FAUSTINI, member of the faculty of Dominican College Music Department, will present Janice Tschache in her third achievement piano recital for the 1965-66 school year at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Angelico Hall in San Rafael.

Janice, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tschache of Novato, will perform compositions by J. S. Bach, C. Daquin, Mozart, Chopin, Villa-Lobos and Casella.

THE 25TH ANNIVERSARY of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. North of Belvedere was honored at a lawn party at the home of Tom's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bischoff in Sacramento, July 17. Fifteen family members attended the celebration, and presented the couple with a handsome silver tea service.

THE ALFRED KUEHLS of Kent Woodlands have returned from Europe where they spent a week in Stuttgart, taking all day trips to the surrounding towns and countryside. They also went to Lake Constance, then a week in Frankfurt, on to Hanover for a week and then to Hamburg. They spent several days in Berlin and into East Berlin. While in Germany they attended the International Landscape Architect conference which meets every two years in a different country.

The Kuehls also traveled to Yugoslavia, stopping a few days in Zagreb, a week in the delightful medieval town of Dubrovnik, then to the unique Fifteenth Century island town of Sveti Stefan which has been converted into a single huge hotel. From Dubrovnik they took a ship up the Adriatic to the ancient city of Split which was founded in 303 A.D. by the Roman emperor Diocletian and is now a famous resort. They spent several days in Split before flying home.

JUST BACK FROM a month's stay in Mexico are Mrs. Carlton Skinner of Belvedere and her younger daughter, Barbara. They traveled with Mrs. Skinner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rowe of Seal Beach. They visited Rosarita Beach, and stayed at Quintas Papagayos, near Ensenada. In Southern California Mrs. Skinner visited former Belvedere residents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Boyer at Balboa, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Colmery in Pasadena.

WINDJAMMER DAYS REVIVED

A replica of the famous Yankee Clipper, Flying Cloud, is guided to port by a tug at Newburyport, Mass., for display at the ninth annual Yankee Homecoming, today through Aug. 7. The second Flying Cloud, identical to the speedy squarerigger of California gold rush days, was built in Canada for Philadelphia businessman Alfred Johnson. (UPI Telephoto)

DRAMA REVIEW

Anouilh's 'Bomb' Is Really A Bombshell

By GARY TISCHLER

It had all the earmarks of a "bomb."

It was performed in the not-so-spacious confines of Brown's Hall in Mill Valley and there was a coffee, cookies and apple juice counter near the entrance.

The hall was just a little over half full when the play started. And it started 10 minutes late.

And it was a hell of a funny play.

It will be performed again tonight and tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. and next Friday through Sunday.

It is all the more pleasant to see a play grow on you during the course of a three-hour evening, despite one's predispositions. And that is what the Homestead Players' production of Jean Anouilh's "Ring Around the Moon" did.

Starting slowly with tense spasm of opening night stiffness, it quickly loosened up, ripped open like a slow-motion bubble and drew in its small but thoroughly appreciative audience.

Somebody is bound to tell me that there was a lot of deep intellectual meaning in the play. Certainly there was a shotgun blast of barbs at the mores of the rich, the aspirations of the poor and the emptiness of having too much money. But frankly, as directed by Irene Pritzker, it didn't matter that much. Because this was not so much cold razor-edge modern satire of today as it was a throwback to the bumbling fun of the comedies that a fellow named Will Shakespeare used to turn out.

There is Hugo, cold, rich, bored and forceful and his effeminate twin brother, Frederick who has the misfortune of having a heart.

There is a sort of dowager queen who is still very much alive in her wheel chair, a nervous young lover and his mistress who is also the mistress of Messerschmann, to whom money sticks like, well, a wet noodle without salt.

There is Isabella, poor, sweet, innocent, the pawn in Hugo's elaborate plot and everybody else's counterplot, a sort of Cinderella who obediently turns into a pumpkin.

And there are a lot of very human mice scurrying around, such as Messerschmann's spoiled daughter, Jasuah the butler, Isabella's mother, whose husband hung wallpaper and Capulet, the maid with the thickest accent this side of a brauhaus.

Earl Robinson played both Hugo and Frederick, not an easy trick. And let us say this for Mr. Robinson. He is smooth, versatile, a fine actor. And he didn't have a chance.

For while the play centers around the twins, and especially Hugo, there were altogether too many characters running around for Robinson to get a scene in edgewise.

A few stood out a head-and-a-half above the others. Merle McDill, as Isabella's mother, was desperately funny. The minute she came on, hands fluttering, eyebrows raised, voice chattering, cajoling, pushing, whining shrilly, the audience was hers.

Ernie Widlund, as Messerschmann, put across a delicate scene in which he throws away money as less valuable than feelings. It was an impressively touching, quiet moment in the midst of chaos.

Annemarie Chambers as Capulet and Merle McDill got together for a raucous reunion that was an out-and-out parody of every female reunion.

Robin Jackson managed not to appear too sweet as Isabella and she has a wonderful sense of deadpan comedy.

Post Office Plans Shakespeare Honors

The Marin Shakespeare Festival will be honored with a special cancellation mark on all postage mailed in the county in August, San Rafael Postmaster Warren H. Williams has announced.

The festival, now in its sixth season, is offering "Richard III," "The Merchant of Venice" and "Julius Caesar" on alternating evenings at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday at the Ross Art and Garden Center.

Enchanted Knolls Home Owners Assn. has William Bay as president.

Marin 'Huck Finns' Building Raft

Plan Voyage From Redding To Sacramento

By FRANK FARRARA

A group of Marin youths is planning a Huckleberry Finn type of adventure next month.

They are going to pilot a homemade raft along the Sacramento River from Redding to Sacramento, about 200 miles counting all the bends in the river.

It will be the first raft trip for the ten youths, between the ages of 16 and 18, nine of them from Marin.

With abandon, they have named their raft the "Obscene" and have labeled themselves "the Obscene crew." They plan to leave Marin Aug. 12 and start their cruise the next day or day after that.

The trip will take about 10 days, according to one of the crew, 17-year-old Joe Patton of 134 Central Avenue, Woodacre.

The raft, under construction at Patton's yard, will be a 24 by 12 feet, mostly redwood deck, floated by eight oil drums with a makeshift cabin in the middle to keep supplies dry, Patton said.

"We're going to have an outboard motor, and maybe we'll rig up a small sail," he said.

Prospective crew members are Patton, John Young, 17, Olin Daunell, 16, and Ed Boyle, 18, all of Woodacre, Rod Moeller, 17, Steve Moeller, 16, Phil Jennings, 16, and Brian Champie, 16, all of San Anselmo, Greg Donovan, 17, of Fairfax, and Chris Chouteau, 16, of San Francisco.

Patton said that Donovan, Jennings and Rod Moeller, students at Drake High School, got the idea for the trip about three weeks before the end of the school year.

"We'll stop at night," Patton said. "We're going to bring canned food and buy along the way."

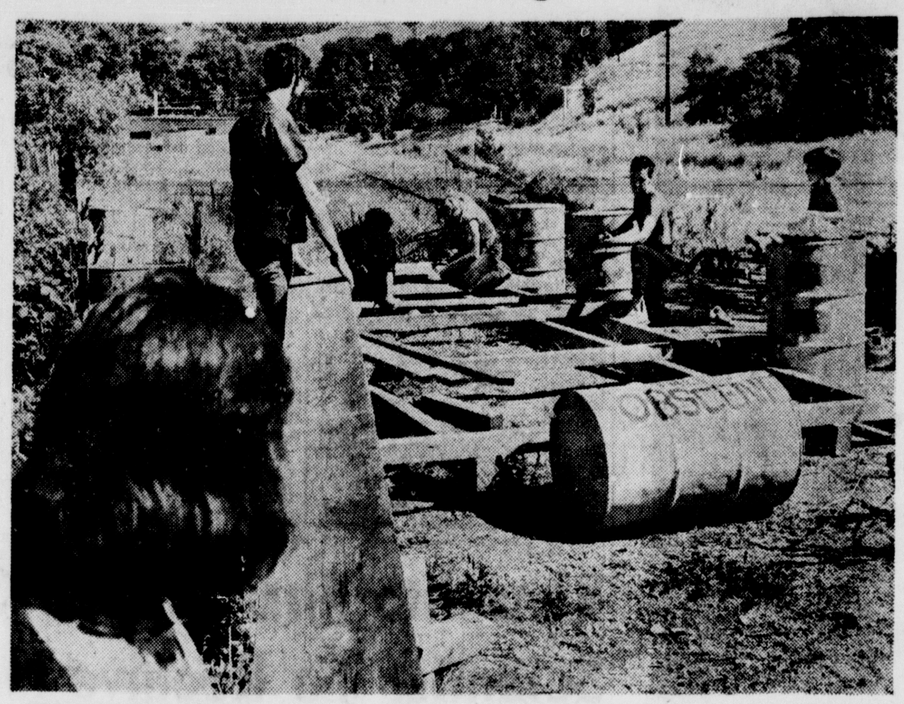
Young said, "Our sponsors are the Fairfax Lumber Co. and the Koffee Klatch."

All hands except Chouteau are constructing the raft in its entirety. "We're going to put it together and dismantle it to be carried to Redding in a flat bed truck," Patton said.

Although no one in the group has raft experience, Young and Donovan have sailing experience, Patton noted.

He admitted that if the water is shallow and the air becalmed, they may have to get out and pull the raft once in a while.

None are familiar with this stretch of the river, but "Greg's father has been up there," Patton explained. "If it works out, we'll do it again next year.



BUILDING A RAFT—Preparing for a trip down the Sacramento River next month, a group of Marin youth put together a homemade raft of lumber and oil drums to be named the "Obscene." Working at the yard of Joe Patton at 134 Central Avenue, Woodacre, are (from the left) Kelley Slattery, Ed Boyle, Patton, Russ Elmore and John Young, while Toni Slattery, perched on a drum, looks on.

Marin Joins Civil Defense Program

Marin County recently joined the Task Force Civil Defense and Disaster Plan developed by the Engineering and Grading Contractors Assn.

Under the plan, members of the association provide construction equipment and trained personnel immediately in the event of a disaster or enemy attack until public forces can handle the situation.

The only major area in California not yet covered by the agreement is the city of Los Angeles.

The president of Bayside Acres Homeowners Assn. is Wallace Curtis.

Scientists Ferret Out Indian Ocean Secrets

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON — The hottest, saltiest water in the seas has been found in the Indian Ocean, as have the fastest midsea current and the coldest surface water in the Tropics.

Within the vast ocean lie acres and acres of productive plants and a layer of water that can be lethal to millions of fish.

Scientists working with the International Indian Ocean Expedition have put together a remarkable body of knowledge about this sea. From September 1959 to December 1965, 25 oceanographers from 15 nations explored the ocean using every tool at their disposal from modern research vessels to weather satellites to tramp steamers.

An Indian Ocean Meteorological Center has been set up in Bombay with United Nations aid and the only international collection of small marine animals or zooplankton can be found at the Indian Ocean Biological Center at Coohin.

The existence of the Somali Current, a "western boundary current" running north past Africa and Arabia at speeds up to seven knots, was confirmed. (The Gulf Stream in the Atlantic and the Kuroshio in the Pacific travel at a maximum of four knots.)

The world's only boundary current to cross the equator, it is also the only one that reverses itself with the seasons. Because it is only surface deep, it races north during the summer months when India's southwest monsoons are raging, only to do an about face and head calmly south when the monsoons die out.

At the point where the current turns, near the Arabian coast, the surface temperature of the water drops to 55 degrees F. because of the tremendous upwelling of cold water far below.

This upwelling carries with it nutrients from the ocean depths, making nutrient concentrations in the western Arabian Sea twice as high as those in the North Atlantic, according to Dr. R. R. Prasad of India. Zooplankton actually "clogged" the nets biologists lowered into the water during this period.

However, the upwelling also brings death. At depths of more than 200 meters, the Indian Ocean is oxygen-deficient, and when this layer of life-threatening water is brought closer to the surface, along with layers of terribly cold water, fish are unable to survive.

The significant advances of the expedition scientists in understanding the activity of the Indian Ocean should, with improved techniques and more data, help raise the present annual catch of fish from 2.5 million tons to 20 million within 35 years.

Sewer Discussion

Mill Valley city councilmen will discuss proposed sewer improvements to be financed by a bond issue at an 8 p.m. meeting, Monday, in City Hall. Recommendations have been made by City Engineer Stanley M. Bala. The council will hear a request to approve proposed urban renewal of the Richardson Bay area north of Sausalito.

Best-seller time is tonight

For every I-J advertiser, an advantage in selling

When you, as an advertiser, purchase space in the I-J, your message gains a TIME ADVANTAGE worth dollars and cents in the till. For as an EVENING NEWSPAPER, the I-J reaches your customer prospects at the PRIME BUYING TIME . . . in the evening, when people have the MOST TIME to read and consider your merchandise and prices.

This EVENING READING TIME is nothing to pass over lightly. This is when buying decisions are made . . . when people are relaxed, receptive, actively in search of advertised values. Contrast this with radio, with morning newspapers, with circulars. In the I-J, readers search the ads, page by page. They WANT TO READ, have TIME to read . . . have time to "talk it over," compare, decide. Even the kids get into the act! Small wonder the I-J is Marin's first choice for advertising . . . by both readers and advertisers.

MORE FOR YOUR STORE

The I-J out-sells all other newspapers in Marin. More daily Marin circulation than the Chronicle and Examiner combined.

RELIGION BRIEFS

Presbyterian Will Attend Geneva Church Seminar

GENEVA COUNCIL — Dr. Arnold B. Gome, acting president of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will leave Thursday for a seminar on human engineering and Christian growth sponsored by the World Council of Churches at Geneva, Switzerland.

TRIO TO SING — The Melody Three Trio of Southern California College will sing at the North Marin Assembly of God Church Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

NEW YOUTH GROUP — The Methodist Young Adults of the Novato Community Methodist Church will have their first meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Porter, 15 Kaden Court, Novato.

SPEECH TOPIC—Helen Daggett, director-therapist of Marin Easter Seal Speech Center in San Rafael will discuss her experiences working with children and adults who have speech and language problems tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin in San Rafael. The church will have no services in August.

METHODIST DAY SCHOOL — The Mill Valley Methodist Vacation Church School will be weekdays for two weeks starting tomorrow, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for children from 3 years of age through sixth grade students.

EVENINGS FOR FAMILIES — The San Rafael Church of Christ plans five meetings nightly starting Monday, 7 to 9:30 p.m. for all members of families to discuss religion and family character.

SECOND EDITION — The The second edition of "Voices of the Holy Land," by Rev. Ervin Charles Tipton, has been published by Triangle Publishing Co. Rev. Tipton, now a member of the General Board of the Methodist, was pastor of San Rafael Methodist Church from 1942 to 1946.

Lutheran Leader Asks Top Teacher Hiring

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A Lutheran campus ministry leader has suggested that Lutheran seminiaries as well as colleges employ the best qualified professors whether they are Lutheran or not.

The Rev. John Arthur, of the Division of College and University Work of the National Lutheran Council, also proposed at a meeting here that Christian denominations share ownership and use of campus and parish facilities and develop interconfessional congregations near universities as well as in mission fields. He said a belief in the unity of the church without believing some form of visible structural union is "an evasion of reality and very naive."

Broadcast Set

"Your Divine Right to be Well" is the title of the Christian Science program to be broadcast by station KGO at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow. It is part of the regular radio series, "The Bible Speaks to You."

PULPIT GUEST — Dr. Raymond V. Kearns Jr., associate general secretary of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States tomorrow will address the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

Retirement Fete Due For Rev. Grunau

Rev. Herman Grunau, retiring as asst. pastor of Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley, will be honored at a buffet luncheon at the church tomorrow after the 11 a.m. service.

Dr. and Mrs. Grunau will move next week to Sunnyvale where their married children now live. Dr. Grunau, who has been with Peace Lutheran Church for more than two years, will continue in retirement to be of service to Lutheran churches in Santa Clara County.

Speaker Slated

Bruce Porterfield, author of "Commandos for Christ" and veteran missionary to Bolivia, will speak at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services tomorrow at Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur.

BUDDHIST CHURCH

Obon Service To Include Japanese Folk Dancing

The colorful Japanese folk dances of a Buddhist Obon service will be performed in Marin for the first time tomorrow.

The Marin Buddhist Church, a congregation which is too new to have its own church building, will hold the service at 10:30 a.m. at the American Legion Hall in Mill Valley.

The dancing, in traditional Japanese costumes, will not start until 1:30 p.m., however. The Buddhists will first hear two sermons, one in English and the other in Japanese. The Obon Odori—that is, the dancing—will start after they eat lunch in the hall.

Giving the English sermon will be the Rev. James H. Burkey of Fairfield, Solano County, a sixth grade teacher who since March has driven to Marin on weekends to be acting pastor of the new church.

Burkey is a former Methodist clergyman who rejected fundamentalist Protestant doctrines 12 years ago and began searching for, in his words, "a more universalist religion." He found what he was seeking in the Shin Buddhism of the Orient, and was ordained to "the first step" — somewhat like a novice priest — in Oregon in 1959.

To achieve full ordination, Burkey found, it was necessary to go to Japan. He travelled to Kyoto last year and went through the formal ritual which made him a full-fledged Buddhist minister. He and others are now working to make it possible for American Buddhists to be fully ordained without leaving this country.

Following Burkey's remarks, the sermon will be delivered in Japanese by Mrs. Shinobu Matsuura of Berkeley, also an ordained Buddhist minister.

The local congregation, which has grown to include 62 families, is a member of the Buddhist Churches of America. Majority of the members are Japanese-American, although a few couples are racially-mixed Air Force families. The Buddhists stress, however, that anyone — regardless of religious or racial background — is welcomed at the weekly services. These are held at the same time each Sunday, but do not usually include the Obon ritual.

Obon has its origin in a legend in which a disciple of Buddha saw his mother suffering in the hell of starvation.

When Buddha learned of this, he said the woman, whose life on earth was characterized by greed, was now reaping the fruits of her actions. Buddha thus told the disciple, Mokuren, to offer food to the other disciples out of a pure, altruistic heart. When he did so, his mother was saved, and the disciples danced in joy.

Baptized Membership Rises For Synod

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —Baptized members of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in the United States and Canada totaled 2,788,241 in 1965, a gain of 43,667 over 1964, according to the Synod's Department of Research and Statistics.

The Missouri Synod is the second largest Lutheran body in North America. The largest is the Lutheran Church in America, which has a total membership of 3,265,205.

Ten Churches: One Building An Ecumenical Cost-Cutting

COLUMBIA, Md. (UPI)—Protestant denominations here are undertaking a pilot project in Ecumenical cooperation that may have far reaching effects on future patterns of church life in America.

Columbia is a projected community of 125,000 person which is being built from scratch on a 15,000-acre rural tract halfway between Baltimore and Washington.

Whenever a new suburb opens up, each denomination rushes to erect its own church. Since land and buildings are costly, the new congregations begin life saddled with debt, and are so preoccupied with building fund drives that they have little time or energy left for service to the community around them.

The solution which will be tried in Columbia is for several different congregations to share the same physical facilities.

They may worship at different hours in the same sanctuary, or maintain separate chapels within the same building complex.

Land is being allocated by the developers for construction of a religious education facility adjacent to every elementary school in the community.

School officials have agreed to work out schedules so that children may be released, at their parents' request, for an hour a day of religious training.

The 10 denominations which have already signed up for Columbia's cooperative ministry are the American Baptists, Quakers, Evangelical United Brethren, Episcopalians, Lutheran Church in America, Missouri Synod Lutherans, Methodists, United Church of Christ, United Presbyterians and Church of the Brethren.

Sausalito First Church Of Christ Scientist To Receive New Home

The First Church of Christ Scientist in Sausalito is soon to have a new home.

Plans have been approved for a contemporary redwood structure on a hilly half-acre at Butte and Sacramento streets.

Construction is to begin some time in August, with completion expected in about four months. Till the new building is ready for occupancy, the congregation will continue to meet in the present temporary quarters at 116 Caledonia Street.

Seen from the street below, the new church will present a roof line with a sharp central peak from which the rest of the roof extends like spreading wings.

A staircase on one side leads pedestrians up to the broad walks surrounding the church, while on the other side is a parking lot.

On passing through a small foyer, one will enter the main auditorium, a stark and functional room warmed by amber and rose-tinted windows.

The auditorium will be an attenuated hexagon in shape, 45 feet by 38 feet at its widest part. The open-beamed ceiling will rise from a low of eight feet at the ends of the wings to 16 feet at the peaked center.

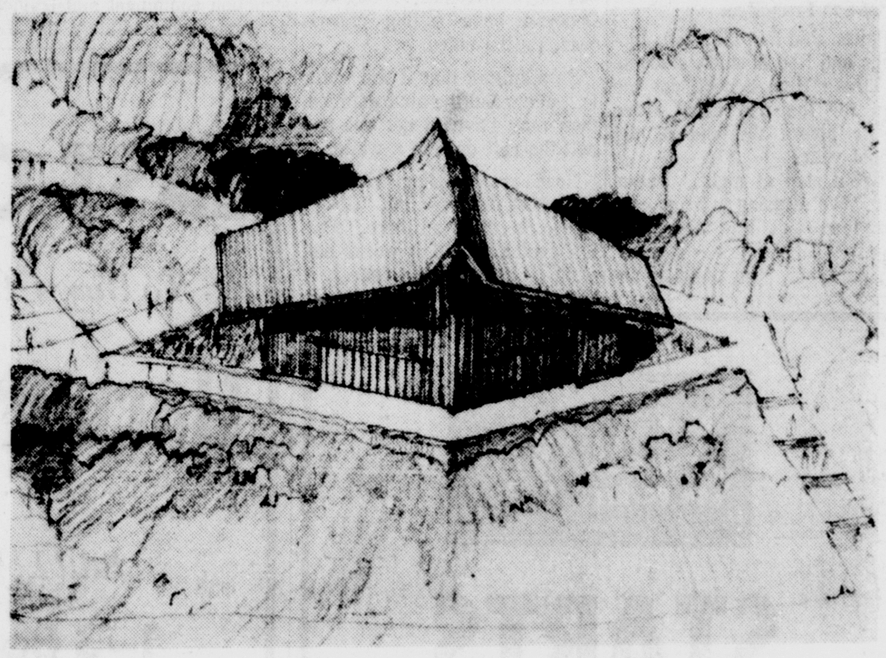
The auditorium is designed to accommodate up to 100 persons in built-in pews facing the speaker's platform. The floor will be carpeted.

On either side of the auditorium are dressing rooms for speakers and soloists.

The lower level of the building will contain classrooms, a multi-purpose room and offices.

Exclusive of furnishings, the new church is expected to cost approximately $86,000.

The architects are Donald Powers Smith and William Ollinger of the San Francisco firm of Architructure Inc.



HIGH ON A HILL—The proposed new First Church of Christ Scientist spreads wings of redwood on a green half-acre in Sausalito. The lighter-toned shingled roof contrasts with the rest of the building which will be stained. Tinted windows complete the facade.

Religious Dialogue Institutions Asked

PRINCETON, N.J., (UPI) — A leading Roman Catholic theologian has proposed establishment of permanent, especially academic, institutions for dialogue among scholars and other leaders of the world's major religions.

The proposal, which could lead to creation of a genuine world community of religions and possible development of inter-faith initiatives in combatting war, povery and disease, was made by the Rev. Dr. R.E. Whitson, of the Theology Faculty of Fordham University, New York, in a paper presented to 50 Christian, Jewish, Hindu, Buddhist and Mosel scholars meeting at Princeton Theological Seminary.

'Short Circuit'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Education without God is "short-circuited education," according to Dr. Alger W. Geary, executive secretary of the Los Angeles Baptist City Mission Society.

"Unless God is recognized in the classroom, He will be eased into the periphery of life," Dr. Geary said

HOME NEEDS FAMILY

Retired couple leaving and this home begs for a new owner. Ideal for the gardener as it's really a DOWNTOWN SAN ANSELMO PARK. Beautiful landscaping, patios, fruit trees and even a summer house. A 2-bedroom remodeled home with dining room and detached garage. All newly painted. Owner very anxious. (Eves. ph. 454-0174).

TOP OF THE WORLD

For the family that wants horses and loves to ride the many trails of Marin — here is the ideal answer. Right on the edge of Ross and high enough to offer unsurpassed view, both of hills and the bay. Perfect weather belt . . . fog and wind at absolute minimum. Custom built, 2 or 3 bedrooms. 2 baths. Built-in kitchen. Rumpus room and beautiful deck. Gorgeous mostly level property. ¾ acre. Circumstances beyond control of owner make this home available now at a price considerably less than investment. Originally $59,500 — reduced $10,000 to only $49,500. Priced below some appraisals of very recent date. (Eves. ph. 388-8066)

School Warned On Segregation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Director of Compensatory Education suggested yesterday that California public schools had better do a little more about de facto segregation if they wish to continue sharing in a new bonanza of state and federal funds.

"This doesn't mean integrating Watts overnight, but it does mean taking some steps, making some good faith effort," said Dr. Wilson C. Riles, who was a consultant in Sausalito and Mill Valley's pupil exchange experiments still underway.

The state and federal funds support compensatory education programs, which are designed to help youngsters, mostly Negro, who missed — or are missing—the educational advantages of coming from a middle class home.

At least $140 million is expected for California school districts this fiscal year. However, Riles must approve district applications for the money. He may be overruled by the state Board of Education, but so far the board has not done so.

Riles spoke after reviewing an opinion from state Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch. The opinion, issued earlier this week, said that state policy required school districts to "alleviate racial imbalance with reasonably feasible" action.

Riles said the opinion, though no surprise, gave him a "stronger hand administratively."

Lynch issued the opinion in response to questions about a new law to provide $46 million for schools in 15 "poverty pockets" around the state. The law, enacted by the 1966 legislature in response to the Watts riot of last year, provides for new classrooms, more teachers, and otherwise improved instruction in the designated areas. Los Angeles City District is eligible for about half the funds.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles District complained to the education board earlier this month that Riles' regulations to implement the law were overly concerned with racial integration. However, the board enacted the regulations, predicting that Riles would be supported by the attorney general.

Riles said he would apply generally the same rules, concerning de facto segregation, to applications for federal compensatory education monies.

He recalled that the federal law, President Johnson's Aid to Education Act, passed in September 1965 and that he had only about three months to set guidelines and approve school district applications for California's $78 million share.

This year, with more time for review, Riles expects to "more fully evaluate" the programs on which districts want to spend the money. Although Congress has yet to fix an appropriation, Riles expects that California will receive at least $78 million this fiscal year.

Riles had no specific suggestions for reducing segregation in places like Watts in Los Angeles or Hunters Point in San Francisco. However, he suggested a start might be made by "stabilizing" fringe area schools whose enrollments are changing from all white to all black.

Stabilization in between, he said, would end white fears of becoming a minority.

Two Receive Fines For Drunken Driving

Paul Henry Clifford, 22, and James Stephen Killarney, 23, were each fined $220 and placed on six months probations yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Clifford, of Sunnyvale, was arrested on Third Street by San Rafael police April 19. Killarney, San Francisco, was arrested July 10 on Bridgeway by Sausalito police.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Good Review Of Reproduction Can Avoid Mothers' Worries

VAN DELLEN

Pregnancy should be a happy time but the reaction to this state is variable. The baby usually is wanted and there is an air of excitement and anticipation as the mother-to-be looks forward to the new life she is about to produce. When the baby arrives, she takes a real interest in Junior. She counts every finger and toe, anticipates his every need, and eagerly watches each reaction that takes place during the developmental stages. The rascal will need food, clothes, and shelter and she plans to accomplish these aims.

SOME WOMEN become fearful or resentful and these attitudes often stem from unfortunate experiences earlier in life. This is understandable because the body and mind have been preparing for motherhood since childhood. Somewhere along the line anxiety has entered the picture. A few associate pregnancy with shame and insecurity and worry about unshapeliness, pain, deformities, and even death. Such ideas are unreasonable and without basis.

Ignorance also plays a role because the source of tension is the instinctive fear of the unknown. Others develop reactions of more recent origin. They may have been misled by back-fence gossip. There is also a possibility that the pregnancy was unplanned, which generally encourages a feeling of guilt, remorse, or hatred of the husband. These emotions aggravate existing frustration and anxiety and unless she changes her attitude, an unwelcome situation takes place leaving her in a state of tension. Palpitation, digestive difficulties, breathlessness, and other unpleasant symptoms follow.

MOST OF these disturbances are avoided by becoming thoroughly acquainted with the entire process of reproduction. This should stem from authoritative sources to dispel all misformation. Other misgivings should be confided to the physician. In this way the woman can be started on the right path unafraid of the consequences and unburdened by rumors. Fear shall not deprive her of the pleasure of motherhood.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

MANNA MIGHT HELP

F. R. writes: Would old Mexico be a good place to live for a man with rheumatism and high blood pressure who expects to retire soon?

REPLY

Yes, because in many parts of Mexico the tempo of living and the climate are ideal for retirees. On the other hand, the success of any retirement plan depends more upon congenial companions and hobbies than upon the weather, regardless of health.

SPINAL CORD LESION

I. N. writes: What is syringomelia?

REPLY

A disturbance of the spinal cord which leads to paralysis in one arm and interference with sensation (anesthesia) in the other. The victim cannot feel heat, cold, or pain in the involved area. The cause is a lesion of the spinal cord.

BRONCHITIS IN CHILD

Mrs. A. J. writes: My 3-year-old comes down with bronchitis and fever every spring and fall. How did he ever develop this condition?

REPLY

Most youngsters have two or more colds a year, hence there is no need for concern.

LIVER CANCER

B. H. writes: Is cancer of the liver fatal?

REPLY

Invariably so.

PHOTOPHOBIA

D. A. writes: What causes the eyes to become overly sensitive to light?

REPLY

Inflammation is the most common cause.

Resources Of The Seas Need Only To Be Tapped

WE ARE CONSTANTLY reminded these days that we are living in the space age. And we are continually reading and hearing about various space age wonders.

We hear less about the scientific progress being made toward unlocking the secrets of the world beneath the seas.

The wonders of the sea may turn out to be of considerably more importance to earth dwellers than the wonders of space.

New York Times science writer William D. Smith says simply, "The oceans are capable of feeding the world's hungry, providing vast quantities of oil and supplying minerals, chemicals and drugs . . ."

The head of the Marine Physical Laboratory of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, Dr. F. N. Spiess, has said, "Within 50 years, man will move onto and into the sea—occupying it, exploiting it as an integral part of his use of this planet for recreation, minerals, food, waste disposal, military and transportation operations, and, as populations grow, for actual living space."

Less than 100 years ago Jules Verne foresaw much of this in his fantasy novel "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea." Before the centennial of that work is observed in 1969, much of what it contains may become commonly accepted reality.

IN WASHINGTON THIS month, President Johnson signed the law authorizing establishment of a "National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development." One of the expressed purposes of this legislation is to "put the oceans on administrative parity with space," providing a cabinet-rank board of presidential advisers.

As Prof. Athelstan Spilhaus of the University of Minnesota observed, "The ocean's bottom is certainly as attractive as the moon's backside."

MARIN STANDS TO PLAY an important part in all this.

The old Tiburon Naval Net Depot is developing as the West Coast headquarters for federal government interest in "the ocean's bottom."

The U.S. Department of Interior operates the Marine Minerals Technology Center at the old net depot, with the active participation of both the U.S. Bureau of Mines and the U.S. Geological Survey.

The activities at Tiburon are explained in some detail in today's issue of the Marin Magazine supplement elsewhere in the I-J.

Harold D. Hess, project leader at Tiburon, recently addressed the annual meeting of the Marin Development Assn., explaining some of the work in progress. Many who heard him on that occasion came away dizzy at the Jules Verne-type wonders under the sea which Hess described.

All manner of new equipment is being devised to take core samples and pictures of the ocean floor at far greater depths than ever before believed possible.

The findings stagger the imagination.

SUCH RESEARCH IS proceeding all over the world.

Not long ago more than 1,700 oceanographers from 57 countries gathered in Moscow for the Second International Oceonographic Congress, under the auspices of UNESCO. The 10-day session, incidentally, was organized by the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Many important new discoveries were reported.

The world's present fish catch of 50 million tons annually can be quadrupled by the end of the century, it was predicted.

Private industry—involving more than 600 firms—contributes far more, comparatively, to solving ocean problems than space problems.

The extraction of oil from beneath the sea doubled in the five years just passed and will continue to increase until by 1975, 40 per cent of world production will come from under the sea.

Already it is potentially profitable to "mine" many important minerals from the sea and within a generation the sea will be the most important source of many common metals.

ALL THESE FINDINGS and developments bring new problems.

When California commercial fishermen work off the shore of Peru, we strongly resent Peru's efforts to extend its area of jurisdiction beyond the traditional three or 12-mile limits. When California commercial fishermen are jailed in Peru for violating that country's "territory" up to 200 miles offshore, we get aroused.

On the other hand, we get aroused when Russian fishing trawlers work the offshore fisheries along the coast of California, Oregon and Washington. We want our government to "do something about" the possible depletion of our fish resources.

The so-called continental shelf extends roughly 200 miles out from San Francisco before the ocean floor descends to extreme depths.

Out to 200 miles our Tiburon-based research activities have uncovered signs of great mineral wealth.

What nation has a rightful claim to it?

One of these days the nations of the world are going to have to get together, perhaps in the U.N., to review ancient concepts of what constitute territorial waters.

Meanwhile we can take a little more tolerant view of Peru's attitude and view Russia's invasion of our offshore fisheries as only a prelude to possible invasion of offshore mineral deposits.

As it has ever been, new generations will face problems not dreamed of by their forebears.

CRITICAL NEED FOR HEALTH WORKERS

A million qualified health service workers will be needed in the next 10 years, according to medical and government experts.

Present critical shortages in the supply of needed workers are slowing down health programs as well as the spread of better health services among the population at large.

Plans for recruiting and training 10,000 nurses, medical technicians and other health workers each year for the next decade have been formulated.

A crash program is to be initiated immediately to attract thousands of persons and provide them with the training in necessary skills.

Show that you care about the physical well-being of the general public. As a "committee of one" encourage those with the needed ability and motivation to become health service workers.

By taking such a cause to heart you are fulfilling the wish and will of the divine Savior Whose love embraced all persons afflicted in body or soul.

"The just man has a care for the rights of the poor." (Proverbs 29:7)

Grant me the grace, O Holy Spirit, to befriend those in trouble.

Homemade Bread Fights Prices

Editor, Independent-Journal:

With regard to the high bread prices discussed in tonight's paper (July 26), Mrs. Durr has arrived at an excellent solution to this problem. She has begun to bake bread at home. Not only is it cheaper but the taste is incomparably better than the paste that passes for bread today. (No, she is not twisting my arm to say this.)

If other women would also do this, it could have two good effects:

1. The removal of customers from the market should tend to drive prices down.

2. The education of jaded palates to how bread should properly taste should tend to create a demand for a better approximation of real bread than that which is now offered in the chain stores.

Some Questions On Marincello

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In March local newspapers reported that approximately $157,450 in property taxes had been paid to Marin County by the owners of Marincello for the last five years, July 1961 to June 1966. Active promotion of the planned community of Marincello by the Frouge Corporation has occurred during the period 1964 to 1966 when the total property taxes paid were reported as $136,250. This publicity caused me to wonder:

How much money has been spent by public bodies in Marin County on the Marincello development in the period 1964 to 1966? The time of paid staff in county agencies alone which has been devoted to this one private development must be tremendous.

Would there be any balance in taxes if all salaries paid for time used on Marincello by the county, cities, school districts, and water district were deducted? These particular costs to the public are not the sole measure of what this private project has cost the general public so far. Time of paid state and federal officials also has been spent on Marincello as well as funds of individuals acting independently.

Do the accounting procedures of the planning, public works, legal and other departments of the county make it possible to calculate the cost of Marincello to the county government? I understand from consulting a county official that cost accounting by projects is not in effect in Marin County.

A large share of the time of our County Planning Department should be reserved for and devoted to master planning and other work that benefits the general public directly. Is it the intention of Planning Director Paul C. Zucker to assure these services to the public by dividing activities of the department into advance and current planning? Will accounting practices show how the department's personnel budget and manhours are expended?

Some Solutions To Congestion

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We don't need another bridge. What good would another bridge do? More cars — More highways. We don't need more studies. $60,000, $850,000, $4,405,000 for studies. Why all the studies? Just ask the commuters.

We should buy electric busses. They could run from Novato to downtown San Francisco. In San Francisco they could run on the San Francisco electric bus lines.

The buying of the busses and setting up the operation should be paid for by the state, federal and Marin funds.

Busses should be operated free. No fare. In this way I am sure people would ride the busses. The way to pay for the operation would be to raise the toll on the Golden Gate Bridge from 25 cents to 50 cents. In this way the people who commute would pay for the bus service.

Ways to ease commute conjestion:

1. During commute hours most cars have only one person in them. We should try to get people to form car pools.

2. Run the express busses from Novato to downtown San Francisco free.

3. Put in parking lots at bus terminals.

4. Put the second deck on the bridge now.

5. If rapid transit trains are ever feasible on the bridge then they should be put in.

6. Hours of the employees should be staggered so that people would go to work at different times.

7. The money that the state would have had to use for freeways should be used to help finance these plans.

8. Three big ferry boats should be bought and be run free from San Rafael to San Francisco.

A steam train could be run from Sausalito to Novato and would be a tremendous visitors drawing card. A visitor could take the ferry boat to Sausalito then take the steam train to Mill Valley, Corte Madera, San Rafael the Civic Center and Novato.

WIVES OF COMMUTING husbands frequently have occasion to pick on their mates for one failing or another, but a lady in Scarsdale not only hit the roof the other morning — but went right through it. Seems her husband promised to drive her to New York so she could buy a summer dress or two. While he was nudging the car out of the garage, she went to the kitchen to give the cook a few parting instruction. When she came out, she discovered that Friend Husband had absent-mindedly tootled off without her.

THAT WASN'T bad enough. An hour later she called him at the office to demand, "What's your alibi this time?" He answered, obviously honestly, "I don't know what you're talking about." "What do you thing of a lug like that?" she asked her mother, after reporting the incident. "He doesn't even remember he forgot me!"

Latest Ky Furor Again Shows Premier No American Puppet

By BARRY SCHWEID

(James Marlow is ill)

WASHINGTON (AP) — By proposing an invasion of North Viet Nam and a confrontation with Communist China, South Viet Nam Premier Nguyen Cao Ky has demonstrated anew that he has a special talent for offending Western sensibilities.

Following Ky's advice would be an abomination, declared Sen. Mike Mansfield, the usually mild-mannered Senate Democratic leader. Administration spokesmen reacted firmly, though with considerable restraint.

"OUR POSITION of not seeking any wider war has been repeatedly made clear and remains our position," said Robert J. McCloskey, State Department press officer. "We do not seek to threaten any regime."

"The President's views on not wanting a wider war are pretty well known," said Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary.

Clearly, once again, Ky and official Washington were at cross purposes, though the measure of stability the slender, 35-year-old pilot has achieved in Saigon is considered a blessing here.

In April 1965, two months before Ky became premier, he questioned the effectiveness of air strikes against highways, railroads and bridges in the North and proposed South Viet Nam's land forces move into the North.

"IF WE ARE just going to bomb communications lines the Viet Cong will be able to stand up for a long time, I'm afraid," he said. "So the next step must be big, either a big escalation of the war or negotiations."

Though President Johnson varied the bombing pattern last June, 14 months later, to strike at oil depots in the North, Ky's call for moving South Vietnamese forces across the 17th parallel never has been followed.

Earlier, in October 1964, Ky kicked off a storm by telling the London Sunday Mirror:

"People ask me who my heroes are. I have only one — Hitler. I admire Hitler because he pulled his country together when it was in terrible state in the early '30s. But the situation here is so desperate that one man would not be enough. We need four or five Hitlers in Viet Nam."

The British government inquired into the interviews and in July 1965, a month after he became premier, Ky's office said he had been referring to Hitler's qualities of discipline and hadn't intended to praise Hitler in general.

LAST FEBRUARY, Ky was at odds with administration policy when he called for the bombing of the North Vietamese port of Haiphong.

In April he sent government troops into Da Nang though the U.S. Marine Corps commandant, Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., said the situation in the South Vietnamese city was calm and the demonstrations there were well-ordered and semi-religious.

In May, Ky caused considerable embarrassment in Washington by declaring he had no intention of resigning following election of a constituent assembly.

THERE ARE several possible explanations of Ky's pronouncements and policy divergences from Washington. One may lie in his comparative youth, nationalism and military background. Certainly they have the effect of demonstrating that he is not Washington's puppet, that no matter how large the United States' involvement, it is South Viet Nam's independence that is at stake in the war.

Educational Parks To Upgrade Schools

By WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

(Second of three articles)

Many people have made proposals for bringing both quality and integration to our schools. This is especially a problem for school systems in large cities where the student population is largely non-white. Washington D.C.'s schools now have about 90 per cent Negro students while many other large cities like New York, Philadelphia, Detroit and Chicago have non-white majorities in their student bodies. This is due to the fact that middle-class white families have been moving to the suburbs in overwhelming numbers.

THE MAIN PROBLEM facing the school systems is to upgrade city schools and make them so much better than suburban schools that people will want to return to the cities "for the kid's sake." One way that has been suggested to gain both integration and quality is to build "educational parks," campus-like developments which would include schools for all grades through junior college and have a student population of up to 20,000 in some cities.

These parks would be better able to utilize expensive equipment like computers and teaching tools which would be too expensive for separate schools to own. Pooled gym and lab facilities would also be better than any one school could have. The major attraction of an educational park is that the students would be drawn from a wide area, representing a realistic cross section of the population thus avoiding the segregation of the neighborhood school which reflects housing patterns.

BUSING CHILDREN from one neighborhood to another is a concept which has aroused a lot of controversy but it may be feasible in some areas. Other schools have been paired successfully — that is the districts have been merged and children from both districts attend one school for grades 1-3; the other school for grades 4-6.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS should be located in fringe areas rather than in the middle of solid ethnic areas, and there is a definite need for pupil expenditures to be higher in slum schools than in more favored sections. These schools should also have the most experienced rather than the least experienced teachers. Perhaps more thought should be given to sharing certain class activities with children from nearby parochial or private schools. This may raise some legal complications but it might be a reasonable way for both sets of children to escape from the isolation of segregated education.

Educators have also come up with challenging new developments in teaching like team teaching, language labs, and computerized teaching and the growth in technology will have its influence in upgrading the schools.

Basically perhaps, the problem is money. Quality costs — in anything. And education is big business. There are in this country 123,000 schools with 55 million students taught by 2.4 million teachers at a yearly cost of $39 billion. Like any other expanding business, the education industry needs more funds — from the taxpayers. If our children are to be educated for tomorrow's world, we will have to pay for it today.

A LOGICAL outcome of the crucial need for funds is organization of school systems on a metropolitan regional basis, so that the poorer cities can join with the more privileged suburbs to provide quality education for all.

South Viet Nam's Forgotten Land Is Viet Cong Haven

Saigon's Control Shaky Over Ca Mau Peninsula

By MARTIN STUART-FOX

CA MAU, Viet Nam (UPI) — The Vietnamese government controls less of An Xuyen Province than any other in the Mekong Delta area — an estimated 6 per cent by day which dwindles to less than 4 per cent at night.

The government enclaves consist of the provincial capital of Ca Mau, 150 miles southwest of Saigon, six tiny district towns and a few small mud forts with adjacent villages. About 28 per cent of the 220,000 people in the province live in these areas.

The Viet Cong control the rest of the province. About 40 per cent of the population is under their complete control. This means the entire village administration, militia, schooling, health services and agriculture are in Communist hands.

The remaining 32 per cent of the people are even worse off. They live in areas contested by the government and the Viet Cong.

Small arms fire rattles nightly around the outskirts of Ca Mau. Security in the town is so bad the two light observation planes assigned to the province are wheeled down the street from the airstrip in the center of the city to the American military compound each night.

The last time the Viet Cong attacked Ca Mau they used direct fire from short range recoilless rifles and managed to chip a large lump of concrete from the base of the province chief's flagpole. Two Americans were killed during that attack.

There are fewer than 10 miles of usable roads in the province. The rest have been hacked to shreds by the Viet Cong and are impassable.

An Xuyen has thousands of miles of canals and waterways, and all but a few miles of them around Ca Mau are controlled by the Viet Cong. If government personnel want to travel a canal it requires full scale military operation for escort.

In short, things are pretty bleak in An Xuyen, the southernmost province in Viet Nam at the tip of the Ca Mau Peninsula.

An Xuyen has the lowest priority of any province in the Mekong Delta in the opinion of the Vietnamese government and the Americans. The province is so far lost that government presence here constitutes little more than a holding operation. Other areas must be secured before resources can be devoted to the mammoth task of pacifying An Xuyen.

VIET CONG HAVEN—So overrun with Communists is the An Xuyen province that the Saigon government controls only Ca Mau, the capital, and about 4 per cent of the total land on the peninsula, inhabited by about 28 per cent of the total population.

(UPI Telephoto map)

For the Viet Cong, on the other hand, An Xuyen is something of a priority area. The province is the principal rest and recreation, retraining and resupply area for their military forces in most of the Mekong Delta.

Most of this Viet Cong activity goes on in the famous U Minh forest, roughly 200 square miles of mangroves, short scrub and 10-foot-high elephant grass running down the western edge of the Ca Mau Peninsula.

Another even larger and denser stretch of jungle — the Nam San forest — lines the eastern coastline and rounds the tip of the peninsula. It is an ideal, well camouflaged area for landing arms and ammunition from the sea. These are brought down the coast either from North Viet Nam or from Cambodia in small steel-hulled coastal freighters, junks and sampans.

The U Minh forest has given its name to a tough Viet Cong main force unit, the U Minh Battalion No. 1 which ranges freely over the provinces of the southern delta.

Great areas of the province are "free bomb zones" for American war planes where bombs can be dropped on any target without prior permission from the Vietnamese province chief. Two or three flights of aircraft per day strike targets in the province.

Air power has been the only answer to Viet Cong control and to some extent it has been successful. It has its drawbacks, too.

As one American official pointed out, "The almost indiscriminate use of air attacks can leave in its wake an embittered people whose revolutionary zeal will smoulder, only to break out anew when the government's back is turned."

Every item moving into or out of the province is taxed by the Viet Cong, from cigarettes and luxury items (50 to 80 per cent of their value) to firewood, fish and rice (10 to 30 per cent of the value or 15 to 45 per cent of the quantity). Under the French the province produced over 260,000 tons of rice but now only about 130,000 tons reaches government storehouses.

The two major industries of the province have traditionally been charcoal production and fishing. The charcoal was made from the mangrove wood of the Nam San forest, but the Viet Cong have closed the waterways and none can be shipped out now.

Fishing has increased with the catch being transferred at sea to Chinese trading ships from Singapore. But sea trout, the principal catch, is threatened by poachers who net the immature fish for fish sauce manufacture. The government has no way to enforce conservation laws.

The U. S. Agency for International Development (USAID) provincial representative, Paul Wankowicz, of Winchester, Mass., points to a current well-boring program and rural electrification as two ways in which the government seeks to win people away from the Viet Cong.

The wells provide fresh water, always scarce where the canals are brackish, and attract people from surrounding areas. Electrification gives visible proof of government interest in an area.

On the military side government pacification efforts in An Xuyen attempts to open up an arterial canal running almost the entire length of the province from north of Ca Mau through the province capital down to Nam San district town. Refugees have been resettled along the banks of the canal in some places but the Viet Cong are still in active control.

Indications are it will be a long time before the government can win control of An Xuyen. It can only be hoped that the province's priority status will be upped in the near future.

"After all," says Maj. Robert H. Forman, of Fayetteville, N. C., senior American adviser in the province, "the Viet Cong are good. Anyone who says they're not has never fought in the delta."

Air Force Capt. James R. Mitchell flew his 100th mission in Viet Nam Wednesday and it was one he won't forget—again.

Mitchell, 37, of Ogden, Utah, was shot down by Communist ground fire as he flew his F-105 Thunderchief on a strike near the city of Dong Hoi. He ejected from the stricken plane and floated to earth. In 45 minutes an Air Force helicopter rescued him and took him to Da Nang.

He later told newsmen it was the 99th of the 100 missions needed to complete his tour in Viet Nam.

"I'll fly tomorrow," he said. "I'll take it a bit easier."

This contradicted an earlier Air Force statement that Mitchell was on his 100th strike when shot down. The Air Force checked further and reported that Mitchell, indeed, had completed his tour of duty with the ill-fated Wednesday raid.

"We checked with operations and they have confirmed that it was Mitchell's 100th mission," a spokesman said. "He won't be flying any more before he goes back to the United States."

Elsewhere in Viet Nam, the United States announced Thursday the battle deaths of 136 men during the week ending July 23. These brought the total of U.S. troops killed in action in Viet Nam to 4,400, five more than were killed in battle during the American Revolution.

South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky created a stir in Washington and Hanoi by calling for the invasion of North Viet Nam, saying it would be better for the United States to square off against China now than in 10 years. Hanoi immediately denounced the statements and Washington quickly disclaimed them.

Around The World; Around The Nation:

Sarasota, Fla.: Dr. Carl Coppolino, 34, was arrested and charged with murder in the death of his first wife, Carmella. The state of New Jersey then charged him with murdering Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, his best friend. Florida refused New Jersey's request for extradition.

Washington President Johnson met at week's end with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson. Viet Nam and the state of the British economy topped the agenda.

Washington: The administration's controversial civil rights bill, which contains the open-housing clause, was brought to the floor of the House by a 200-180 vote.

Chicago: A Cook County grand jury returned eight separate homicide indictments against Richard F. Speck in the killing of the eight student nurses.

San Francisco: A widespread sea search was conducted for a lost DC-3 carrying Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell Jr., commander of the Green Berets, and two others.

Munster, Ind.: Professional golfer Tony Lema, 32, his wife Betty, and two others were killed in a plane crash en route to a golf tournament.

New York: Stock prices Monday registered the sharpest break since the assassination of President Kennedy Nov. 22, 1963.

Clean Campaign Group Never Meets

By ROBERT STRAND

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The group which the California public expects to keep political campaigning clean has never held a meeting.

Its members conduct their business only every other fall, and then only by letter and telephone.

They comprise the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, an organization to which angry candidates will appeal more and more between now and election day.

But now the committee is short of members, its address is hard-to-find and it is about to be reorganized. The group is so elusive that a state co-chairman in the current gubernatorial race thought the state organization no longer existed.

Outstanding citizens become members upon the invitation of Bruce L. Felknor, executive director of the national committee, providing that state chairmen of both political parties approve.

Each party must have four of the state committee's eight members.

The present Northern California chairman is N. C. Templeton, a Sacramento investment broker. The Southern California chairmanship is being vacated by Paul Veblen, executive editor of the Santa Barbara News-Press.

The committee circulates a code of fair practices among candidates. Most accept the code.

WALLACE HENDERSON
Member from Fresno

Then, when a candidate feels maligned, he complains to the committee in writing, usually along with announcements to the press.

The state committee discusses the problem in a conference call, investigates and announces a judgment to news media if necessary.

"But what is fair in politics and what isn't, is a very fine question," says Templeton. "It's something everybody has to make up his own mind about."

However, he says committee members are almost in complete agreement. This was a surprise to Templeton, who has been a member since the group was formed in 1958.

He estimates that the committee, which is not active during the primary, receives about 30 complaints during a general election from legislative, congressional and statewide races. Of these he says about 10 are serious violations of the code and the rest borderline cases.

The most common complaint involves circulation of defamatory pamphlets such as those abusing Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1958, an incident in which the then new state committee intervened.

The number of complaints reaches its high point a couple days before the election, and Templeton says the committee then has trouble handling them.

"Once a candidate is fairly defeated, there isn't a darn thing we can do about it," he says. Templeton believes that since formation of the committee, perhaps three legislators won their seats by last-day name calling.

Templeton's address is 926 J Bldg., Sacramento. Other members are Eugene Lee, Berkeley; Wallane Henderson, Fresno; Henry Duque, Los Angeles, and Leon Scales, San Diego.

The national committee, which was set up in 1954, is located at 790 Madison Ave., New York City.

It was set up upon the recommendation of a U.S. Senate subcommittee. Both the national and state groups are privately supported and operated.

Arab Refugees Still Unsolved Problem

BY JAMES BLY

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—For some 18 years now, thousands of Palestinean Arabs have lived at a bare subsistence level as virtual wards of the United Nations. These are the Arab refugees, and no solution to their plight is in sight.

When the Jewish state of Israel was formed in 1948, Arabs living in the area fled to neighboring Arab countries, most of them with little more than their personal belongings. Ever since, the Arab countries have insisted that the refugees be allowed to return to their homes, and Israel has refused to receive them.

During the intense Arab-Israeli conflict, which has not abated, the United Nations has been administering aid to the refugees. In 1948 the United Nations General Assembly created the U.N. Relief for Palestine Refugees Agency to look after the needs of the refugees. That organization was superseded in 1950 by the U.N. Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA).

Laurence Michelmore, commissioner-general of UNRWA, said in his 1965 report to the General Assembly that "in the absence of a political solution . . . the plight of the refugees was likely to continue and to demand the sympathy and support of the international community for a period to which a time limit could not be fixed at present."

The Assembly has repeatedly recommended that those refugees wishing to return and live at peace with their neighbors be allowed to do so, and that those who do not return be compensated for the property they left behind.

However, Israel contends that the refugees should be resettled in Arab countries.

The refugees themselves, according to Michelmore, have not lost their desire to return to their homes. If anything, he said, that desire has become more intense.

He said the refugees feel that "a nation has been obliterated and a population arbitrarily deprived of its birthright."

"This injustice," he added, still festers in their minds and they hold the United Nations reponsible for their lot and for extending assistance to them until a solution can be found to their problem."

Pending a political solution, UNRWA, with its staff of 140 international personnel and nearly 12,000 local employees — mostly refugees—has the task of providing for the food, health and educational needs of the 1.3 million refugees.

UNRWA supervises 54 refugee camps sheltering some 500,000 persons in the "host" countries of Lebanon, Jordan, Syria and the Gaza Strip. The other refugees have found their own accommodations. The camps range in size from 409 persons to nearly 44,000, and the average hut is a 10-foot square room for a family of five.

In addition, UNRWA, with cooperation of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, operates 406 schools, 10 vocational and teacher training centers and 88 health clinics.

About 70 per cent of the refugees receive monthly food rations consisting of 22 pounds of flour, one and three-tenths pounds of dried beans, peas or lentils, one and three-tenths pounds of sugar, one and one-tenth pounds of rice, 13 ounces of oil and one bar of soap.

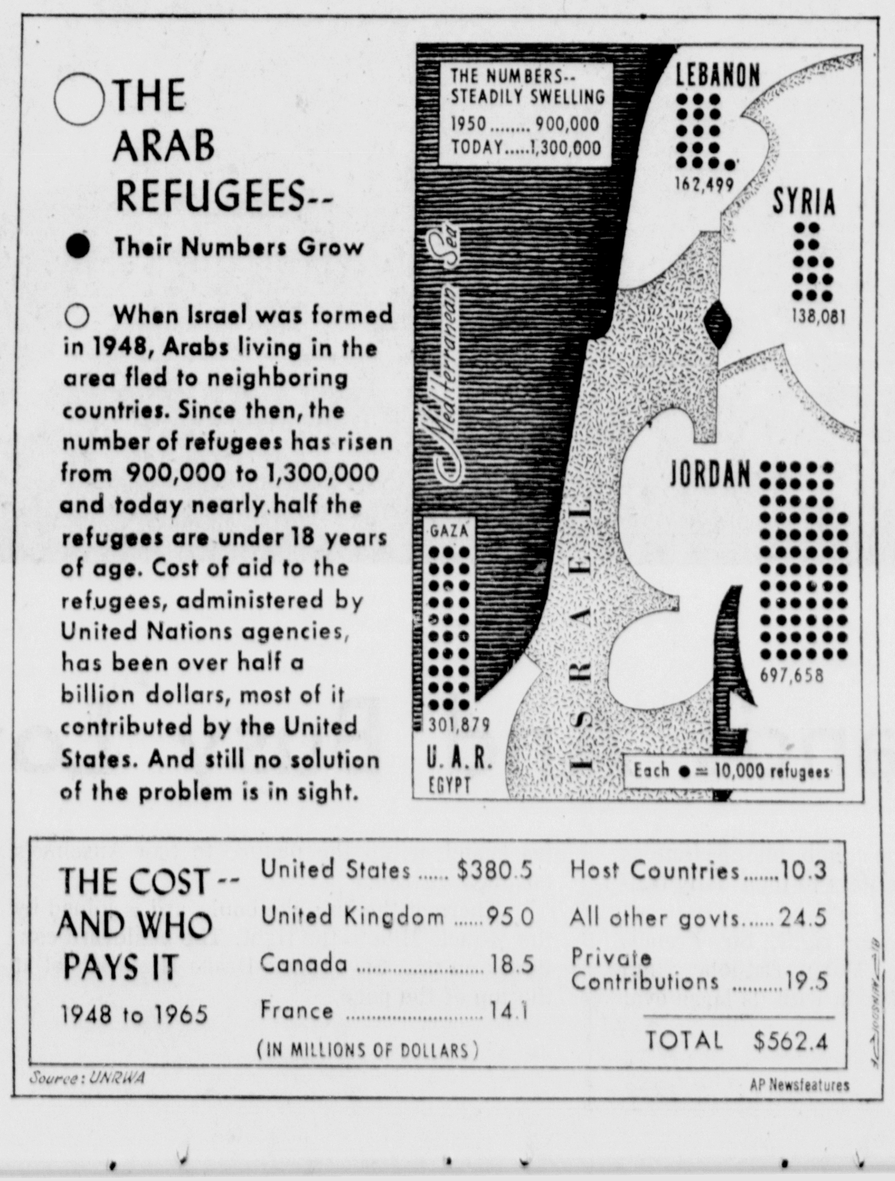
UNRWA, financed by voluntary contributions of governments and some private groups, has run into financial headaches in recent years, resulting partly from the increasing refugee population.

The refugee population in 1950 numbered about 900,000, but has since expanded to 1.3 million, and nearly 40,000 babies are added each year. Almost half the total population now is under 18 years old.

The arrival of the third generation of refugees—grandchildren of those who fled Palestine—raised a question of eligibility, since the original definition of the refugees included only those who left Palestine and their children.

However, in his last report to the General Assembly, Michelmore said he planned to amend the definition to include the third generation provided the host governments cooperate in correcting the ration rolls. The 1965 Assembly resolution extending the mandate of UNRWA to 1969, noting reports of duplication, urged a rectification of the relief rolls to eliminate duplication of registration, and to remove from the rolls those who had died.

Concerning the third generation children, Michelmore said: "From the humanitarian standpoint, the exclusion of these children from eligibility for rations would mean that, within a given refugee family whose need for rations was not in doubt, some members would receive rations because their parents were born in Palestine, and others be denied them because their parents were born after the family was uprooted from its home."



Most Ancient Ice Sheet Retreating

By SCIENCE SERVICE

WASHINGTON—The most ancient ice sheet on the Arctic islands, which took shape at least 100,000 years ago, is now in retreat, Soviet glaciologists believe.

A Russian scientific expedition spent two and a half months in Severnaya Zemlya archipelago, where repeated explorations of the October Revolution Island, biggest in the archipelago, "have confirmed the assumption about the retreat of the glaciers and the considerable contraction of their dimensions." Previous observations at Franz Josef Land, the Ushakov Islands (Kara Sea) and Victoria (Barents Sea) have confirmed the general retreat of the ice sheet.

The expedition also found flotsam of ancient tree trunks dumped into the ocean by Siberian rivers, as well as various specimens of moss which had once been growing in the territory of what is now the Arctic. Buried under ice later, they have been released from "captivity" now as the result of the retreat of the glaciers.

Empty Highlands And Busy Lowlands

Thoroughfares, threading the vales once carved by streams, determine the pattern of suburban growth in this aerial photograph of Ross, Kent Woodlands, San Anselmo and, way down at the lower right, a jutting corner of Larkspur.

The pattern of roads leads the eye as unerringly to San Anselmo's hub intersection as each day they lead commuters to their daily traffic jam.

There at the hub, the boulevard is joined by the Miracle Mile to the right. The boulevard continues on past Sir Francis Drake High School at the top of the page.

Untouched by the ebb and flow of businessmen, students, housewives and others through the busy streets below, the wooded highlands pursue only the ancient dream of seasons: peaceful change.

Over W.Germany 4-2 In Overtime

LONDON (AP)—A sensational goal in the 11th minute of overtime won the World Cup for England today with a 4-2 victory over West Germany in a thrill packed climax to history's greatest festival of international soccer.

Still another shattering goal came in the last minute of the match when Geoff Hurst scored for England to make it 4-2.

Until the last minute of regulation play before 97,000 fans at London's Wembley Stadium, England seemed to have the cup firmly in its grasp with a 2-1 lead.

But Germany fought back with an equalizer by Wolfgang Weber only 30 seconds before the end of the contest, and the game went on into the extra 30 minutes.

In soccer, the overtime is for a stipulated number of minutes, usually 30 with the teams changing goals at the halfway point.

The match was the climax of three-week tournament which has demonstrated the fantastic interest in soccer. Sixteen teams set out in the competition. Thousands of fans from overseas, waving their national flags and carrying banners, have traveled from one stadium to another to see their teams in action.

The Germans had 10,000 supporters at Wembley.

Bookies offered odds of 1 to 2 on an England victory which would bring the coveted trophy back to the land where soccer was born.

After teaching the game to the rest of the world, England went into a slide. It has never previously reached the final of the World Cup, which was started in 1930.

Alf Ramsey, a former international full-back who became England's team manager three years ago, has been the force behind the comeback.

Ramsey has survived a deluge of criticism from fans and sports writers who disapproved of his team-building methods. But from the start, he has quietly prophesied that England would win the 1966 world cup.

A few hours before the final he was still saying it.

West Germany won the trophy in 1954. That was before Brazil began its long reign as world champions — a reign which ended 10 days ago.

Critics saw these facts as favorable to England:

In nine matches between the two countries, Germany has never yet won:

England has been undefeated in its last 10 international games:

The roar of the crowd was on England's side. So was the feel of the Wembley turf — lush springy turf that is different from any other soccer field.

Bobby Moore, England's captain, was hoping to complete a personal triple. In the last two seasons he has received two coveted cups at Wembley stadium as captain of West Ham United, which won the English Cup there in 1964 and defeated TSV Munich in the final of the European Cup of Cup winners last year.

Giants Won't Win Pennant---Bragan

COMBINED AP & UPI

ATLANTA — Bobby Bragan says the San Francisco Giants aren't going to win the National League pennant, and his Braves are doing their best to make him a prophet.

Atlanta took its fifth victory in nine games from the Giants last night, 7-6, and knocked San Francisco a full game out of the league lead.

The triumph was only the second in the last 10 games for the Braves, and they had to come from behind twice and break a ninth-inning tie to win.

Bragan, who has had plenty of troubles of his own with the struggling Braves, says he thinks Pittsburgh is the team to beat. San Francisco Manager Herman Franks' reply to Bragan's prediction earlier this year was "if Bragan could manage as well as he can talk, the Braves would win the pennant."

The Braves aren't pennant bound, because they are eighth and 14½ games off the pace, but they will reach a milestone of sorts today in a day-night doubleheader against the Giants.

Attendance is expected to pass the million mark, with 43,948 fans needed. The Friday night game attracted 31,069.

LIVE ON TV
Tomorrow's Giants-Braves game will be televised at 10:55 a.m. on Channel 2 KTVU.

Interest in the last three games of the current series wasn't dampened by a lack of hits in the opener. The Braves slammed 17 and the Giants 11.

The Giants had a 5-3 lead over the Braves in the seventh inning when showers began falling on the stadium to delay the contest.

One hour and 12 minutes later the game resumed in the bottom of the frame, and Rico Carty came out of the mist to wallop a three-run homer to give the Braves a 6-5 lead.

The Giants got back in the contest in the ninth when Willie Mays cracked a line-drive homer over the left field fence. It was Willie's 23rd of the year and 528th of his career.

But the Braves lowered the nis Menke rapped a two-out single off reliefer Frank Linzy and drove home Carty with the winning run.

The Giants had picked up two runs in each of the first and fourth innings and added another in the sixth on Tom Haller's 20th roundtripper. Jim Hart had doubled in the two first-inning runs, and Ollie Brown got the two in the fourth with his fourth homer.

The Braves got their first two runs in the third. Hurler Tony Cloninger led off that inning with his fifth homer of the year, and Hank Aaron drove in his 78th run of the season with a one-baser. Cloninger drove in another score in the sixth with a double to cut the gap to 5-3.

Cloninger had to leave the game after the delay because of a pulled muscle in his leg. The victory went to submariner Ted Abernathy, now 4-6. Linzy took the loss. His record is now 4-7.

Preacher McDaniel Has Ideal Temperment For Relief Work

ATLANTA—Lindy McDaniel, a veteran of 10 major league baseball campaigns with the Cardinals and Cubs, said when he came to the Giants this season: "There isn't a team in baseball I'd rather be with."

The clear-eyed, willowy 6-3, 190-pounder flashed a smile when asked if he still felt the same way after 100 games with the Giants, six which he won in relief with four saves.

"Now you know that's a rhetorical question needing no answer," McDaniel gently admonished the inquiring reporter. "But the answer, of course, is yes.

I'D ALWAYS heard of what a fine organization the Giants have and now I know it's true from personal affiliation with them and personal observation of their operation."

McDaniel talks that way, rarely groping for a word to express clearly and precisely his thoughts. All baseball fans know that McDaniel is a preacher during the off-season of baseball in the pulpit of the Church of Christ.

EVEN DURING the baseball season, McDaniel uses his spare time to write articles for two religious publications. Going to and from airports, McDaniel is the only baseball player who looks like a baseball writer. He always has his portable typewriter in hand.

Instead of preaching relief sermons to them from the mound, National League batters wish that McDaniel would take his talent permanently to the pulpit, somthing McDaniel will do when his baseball days are over.

BUT McDANIEL'S baseball career still has a long ways to go. At 30, McDaniel is a wiry athlete in superb physical condition. He never has smoked and never has touched alcoholic stuff. So he probably will be pitching in relief roles for many more seasons.

McDaniel has the ideal temperament for a relief pitcher, unexcitable and calmly confident. He looks as if he always is smiling as he strides into an emergency situation. The built-in smile highlights a serene expression.

"THAT'S THE way I look?" asked McDaniel when told of the way he walks from bullpen to mound. "Well, I'm excited every time it happens but I try to keep my excitement under control. Yes, that's it. Controlled excitement."

McDaniel also is a fellow with a sense of humor. He doesn't lecture fellow athletes about smoking or drinking. But, being a wise man, he knows lessons can be taught effectively by example.

HANK SAUER was a Cardinal teammate of McDaniel some years ago when the Cardinals were allotted a couple of clubhouse coupons for free beer after each home game. McDaniel's teammates used to try to con him out of his coupons.

"We never were successful," Sauer recalls. "Lindy would tell us: 'If I gave them to you it would be the same as me drinking.' "

Pagan, O'Dell Pace Bucs; Card Rookie Stops L.A.

Pittsburgh Rallies To Top Phils

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates don't know where their next complete-game pitching performance is coming from, but Manager Harry Walker says he couldn't care less.

That's because hitting, rather than pitching, is keeping the Pirates in the National League lead despite the time-honored theory that pitching is three-quarters, or more, of the game.

The Bucs failed last night for the 10th straight time to get a complete game. But Jose Pagan's three-run double in the eighth inning and six innings of scoreless relief pitching by Billy O'Dell provided them with a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia.

"I don't think too much about the pitching," Walker said afterwards. "As long as we're winning, why worry about complete games? Someone will get us started."

The Pirates have become used to late-inning batting heroics this year, so there was little surprising about the four-run, four-hit eighth inning that ruined an otherwise brilliant performance by the Phillies' Chris Short.

Short had retired 15 straight hitters before pinch-batter Gene Michael lined a two-strike single in the eighth for his third major-league hit. Manny Mota and Gene Alley followed with singles to produce one run and bring the Pirates within one, 3-2.

Roberto Clemente grounded into a forceout but Donn Clendenon walked to load the bases. Pagan wasted little time, pickling a high slider on Short's first pitch.

Pagan, who played on the Giants' championship team in 1962, is enjoying his best major-league season. He attributes it to a longer, heavier bat which is cutting down his swing. But the Pirates' "spirit" is another important factor.

"It's good to be playing on a club like this," Pagan said. "The spirit is something to see. That's why we win so many games in late innings — no one gives up. Everybody's pulling for each other."

Jaster Is Master Of Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — There's one pitcher in the National League who the Los Angeles Dodgers had just as soon not face. No, it's not Juan Marichal or even Jim Bunning, but a 22-year-old native of Midland, Mich., named Larry Edward Jaster.

The streaking world champions had put together six wins in a row before they crossed paths with the lefthander last night. But the St. Louis rookie ended the Dodgers' streak and added to one of his own as he hurled the Cardinals to a 4-0 victory.

Jaster, 6-2, has now held Walt Alston's crew scoreless in the past three games. The Dodgers have found it hard to get to first base off the Cards' prize youngster during that 27-inning dry spell.

And the end of the drought may not be in sight. The Dodgers face another tough customer, little Alvin Jackson, tonight in muggy St. Louis.

Since donning the Redbird uniform after an off-season trade, Jackson has posted a 10 and 8 record and has always been known to relish a win over the Dodgers.

SPARRING PARTNER

Jackson's sparring partner will be young Don Sutton. The Dodger rookie is still in the battle for N.L. Rookie of the Year honors with his 9-7 record.

The season set between the two clubs is all even at 4-4. The current series ends tomorrow when southpaw Claude Osteen faces another Cardinal who is barely old enough to vote — righthander Nelson Briles.

The Redbirds are now the hottest property in the league. They have won five straight and 11 of their last 12.

Lou Brock was to loser Don Drysdale what Jaster had been to the Dodger batters—pure poison. Brock hit safely on three occasions to spark the offensive show. His first single drove in Dal Maxvill from second and he scored another run later himself after tripling.

Drysdale was assessed with his 12th loss against only seven wins.

Day Of Decision For U.S. Davis Cuppers

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — The Davis Cup team which America will send into action against Mexico in two weeks won't be named until Tuesday but for Clark Graebner and Cliff Richey today could be the day of decision.

Graebner and Richey put on contrasting performance yesterday as they won their way into today's semi-final showdown at the Eastern Grass Court Tennis Championships. The general assumption is that one or the other will get the No. 2 Davis Cup singles assignment behind Dennis Ralston.

However, Davis Cup Captain George MacCall said yesterday the make-up of the team is "still wide open — by no means definite."

Still, the Graebner-Richey match may have some say in deciding the matter. Graebner, seeded fifth here but only ranked 13th in the country, is a hot player, having just won the Pennsylvania Lawn Championships. Richey, ranked third in the nation and the top seed here, is noted for being at his best on clay courts.

The matches against Mexico in Cleveland Aug. 13-15 will be played on a hard, fast composition surface.

Graebner, who seems sure to make the U. S. top 10 rankings this year, said his being named to the Davis Cup team last year — he was a doubles standout in the loss to Spain — helped build his confidence.

"I played well," he said after walloping Davis Cup teammate Charley Pasarell of Santurce, P.R., 6-3, 6-3. "I was confident I could win because I beat him last week in Pennsylvania. I had him 40-0 a lot of times and even though he made it 40-30 in many games he really had to work for those points and tired himself out."

Richey got a lucky break in beating national junior champion Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, 6-4, 1-6, 6-4 — a controversial baseline call that kept him alive in the next-to-last game and prevented a service break.

At 15-40, Lutz returned service cross-court for an apparent winner and a 5-4 lead. But the linesman, Hollis Dann, was momentarily blinded by the sun and didn't see the ball. The umpire R. Michael Dunne ruled it out as many in the gallery of 2,800 groaned in disbelief.

Was the shot good?

"You saw it," Richey said. "I should have lost. It was the first time I ever got a good call. Those kind of matches leave you shaking for hours."

"It was my match," was all a disconsolate Lutz had to say.

The other semi-final is an all-Australian affair between Tony Roche and Owen Davidson. Roche defeated fellow Aussie Bill Bowrey, 6-3, 6-4 while Davidson rallied to beat 18-year-old Ismael El Shafei of Egypt, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Unseeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco led the way into the women's semi by ousting Tory Ann Fretz of Los Angeles, 7-5, 8-6.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Novato, Sausalito Collide In Final

Novato All-Stars and the Sausalito stars both scored decisive victories yesterday, and were scheduled to meet in today's finals of the Marin County District Little League All-Star Tournament at 3 p.m. in Novato.

Mill Valley National and San Rafael American, losers in yesterday's semi-finals, were to meet in consolation play at 1 p.m. on the same field.

With Lawrence Dora fanning 16 of the 21 batsmen he faced, allowing just 3 hits, walking none, the Sausalito team routed Mill Valley, 17-0, in the semi-finals yesterday at Strawberry. Dora also had a perfect day at the plate, smashing a homer, a double, and three singles, which accounted for 4 RBI. Clifford Hall and Paul Medeiros also belted homers for the winners while Russell Knudson collected 3 safeties in the Sausalito 21-hit barrage.

In addition to his home run, Hall banged out two doubles and a single, driving home a total of 5 runs.

In the fourth inning, Dora threw nine consecutive strikes.

Novato, meanwhile, shut out San Rafael American in the other semi-final action, 4-0, at Wagner Field in Larkspur, with Bob Dinkel whiffing 14 and walking none while yielding just one base hit. The Novato stars tallied all four runs in the first inning.

Dinkel was supported by the errorless play of his teammates. The Novato team scored on two consecutive walks, an error, a Dave Judnick two-run single, and a base hit by Jeff deRecat which capped the fourth inning rally.

All in all, it was a tight, well-played game as Novato had just three hits and was aided by 3 San Rafael errors.

Two More Teams Enter Tourney

The Sebastopol Merchants and the Larkfield Merchants, two of the leading teams in Sonoma County, have officially joined Sohner Tree Service of Marin County in accepting bids to the 7th annual San Anselmo Invitational Softball Tournament.

Hungry Chi Chi Ties For Lead

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Hungry again after a week's treatment for low blood pressure, little Chi Chi Rodriguez today makes a spirited charge after the $16,400 first prize in the 500 Festival Open Golf Tournament.

He belted out a 6-under-par 66 over the long, wet and not-quite-ready Speedway course yesterday for a second round tie with rookie John Schlee at 138.

The 127-pound Puerto Rican has made only $9,500 on the tour this year after piling up more than $100,000 over the last three seasons. His best 1966 finish has been a 13th place tie in the Colonial at Fort Worth, Tex.

"I was thinking maybe I am getting rich and lazy, "Chi Chi said after blasting seven birdies for the 66, his lowest score since his second place finish in the 1965 Western Open.

"But I have never been lazy," he added. "And when I can only hit the ball 220 yards and have pains in the back of the neck, I have an examination and find out I have no blood pressure at all hardly."

He went to a specialist in New York last week and was given some liver pills. He also has been eating liver for dinner every night.

"I'm hungry again and gaining maybe two ounces a day," he said happily. "I thought it was funny I was playing so bad when I had played so good."

Schlee, whose 66-72 was the reverse of Rodriguez' combination, said the even-par second round "was pretty good for a rookie." He was undisputed leader the first day.

The Wysong brothers of McKinney, Tex., weren't feeling so well and both went home after the second round. Dudley, runnerup for the PGA title last week, had an ailing back and amateur Charles was disgusted after an unbelievable 17 on the No. 14 water-hole.

A stroke behind the midway pace at 139 where R. H. Sikes, Lionel Hebert and former winner Billy Casper.

New Zealander Bob Charles birdied the last three holes yesterday for a 3-under 69 and a 140 total that tied him with Gene Littler for sixth position.

The cut off point, 150, left 75 players of 144 starters.

O's Hike Lead To 13½ Games

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Luis Aparicio is losing his personal battle, but he's helping the Baltimore Orioles win the war.

Aparicio, overshadowed by Baltimore's power brigade of Robinson, Powell and Robinson, played his part again last night as the Orioles defeated Minnesota 3-0 and took a 13½-game lead in the American League, their biggest bulge of the season.

Aparicio vowed before the season started that he would do his best to win back the stolen-base title he lost last year after winning it in his first nine years in the league.

"We don't never get started last year," the 32-year-old Venezuelan explained. "Nothing serious — mumps, cut on a finger, things like that. But I used to playing every day. I come in for a couple of games, then hurt, then come back. I don't get started."

The fleet little shortstop really hasn't gotten started this year on his march toward regaining the stolen base crown. With just 60 games remaining, he has stolen 16 bases and trails six other speedsters, including Chicago's Tommie Agee who leads with 29.

But the Orioles haven't needed the stolen base as a weapon in the drive toward their first pennant. They have so much power all they need is a few men to get on base.

And that's where Aparicio's value lies.

He collected two hits against Minnesota, raising his season total to 116, fourth best in the league, and scored one run for a total of 71, a figure topped in the A.L. only by Frank Robinson's 80.

"You can help the ball club a lot by stealing," Aparicio said in spring training.

Now he's found another way.

Elsewhere in the league Kansas City defeated Detroit 4-1, California edged Cleveland 2-1, New York nipped Chicago 2-1 and Washington swept Boston 13-4 and 6-5 in 15 innings.

Aparicio got the Orioles started against the Twins with an infield single in the fourth. He then scored on Brooks Robinson's double. His eighth-inning bunt single put pitcher Jim Palmer in position to score on Boog Powell's single. Frank Robinson hit his 31st homer in the seventh.

Kansas City downed Detroit with a four-run explosion in the second inning. Pitcher Lew Krausse drove in the first two runs with a double, and Bert Campaneris followed with a two-run single.

Ed Kirpatrick brought California from behind with a two-out, two-run homer in the eighth. Cleveland had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on walks to Chico Salmon and Rocky Colavito and a double by Chuck Hinton.

New York's Mickey Mantle hit his 21st homer of the season and 494th of his career, becoming the second greatest homer hitter in Yankee history and sixth greatest in baseball history. A bases-loaded walk to Elston Howard in the same inning, the fourth, brought in the decisive run.

Fred Valentine lashed seven hits in Washington's sweep, four in the first game when Frank Howard drove in four runs. The Senators scored nine runs in the fifth inning, eight of them unearned as the result of four Boston errors, three by Rico Petrocelli.

The Senators won the nightcap on Ken McMullen' two-out, run-producing single in the 15th. The Red Sox took one-run leads in the 10th and 13th innings, but Washington came back each time and tied it. Boston's Dalton Jones sent the game into overtime with a run-scoring double in the ninth.

Cassius Is Ready; London Impressive

LONDON (UPI) —Cassius Clay, handing out only words of advice for the next two days, has been given a rest by trainer Angelo Dundee while challenger Brian London prepares for their Aug. 6 heavyweight title bout by intensifying his workouts.

Clay, rounding into top shape for his fifth title defense, punished two sparring partners yesterday and was promptly pronounced "in shape and ready" by Dundee.

Clay went all out against sparmate Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., and finished the workout by pounding 217-pound Cody Jones of Detroit. Dundee, fearing the champ would ready too soon for the fight, gave him two days off.

The Louisville Lip was in fine shape verbally as well as physically. Asked to advise the challenger on how to win the fight next week, Clay quipped, "I would tell him to take into the ring a pistol, a club and two police dogs from Scotland Yard."

London, weighing only two pounds over his fighting weight of 198 pounds, resumed his heavy roadwork today with a seven-mile run and increased gymwork.

The challenger turned in an impressive workout yesterday by rocking sparring partner Dave Barber of Dublin three or four times with hard jabs. London concluded his session by boxing two rounds with his brother Jack and Ron Gray for a total of 30 training rounds this week.

An American Record

SEATTLE (AP) — Steve Krause of Seattle, shattered the American record for the 880-yard freestyle yesterday when he stroked the distance in 9:04.2.

The old mark of 9:13.5. was set by Murray Rose in 1958.

DID PIRATE CATCHER BELT MANAGER?

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Catcher Jim Pagliaroni of the Pittsburgh Pirates denied last night a report that he struck manager Harry Walker and was fined $1,000.

"That's the most ridiculous story that I've ever heard," Pagliaroni said. "It's a complete falsehood. Do you think if such a thing would happen, I would still be with the ball club? Walker and I have had several meetings, discussing minor problems. There has never been any trouble between us."

The report was carried in the New York Post yesterday in a column by Maury Allen.

Six Pro Football Stars End Holdout

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Jimmy Brown is still in England, but some of the pro football holdouts who don't have acting contracts to fall back on have started trickling into their training camps.

Among the stars who came to terms yesterday were defensive end Earl Faison of San Diego, flankerback Pat Studstill of Detroit and a quartet of Baltimore Colts: Tight end John Mackey, flankers Jimmy Orr and Willie Richardson and defensive end-placekicker Lou Michaels.

The Colts were so shaken by the negotiations with their absentees that a club official warned that "never again will the Colts negotiate with a player who walks out of training camp."

Split end Raymond Berry is the sole Baltimore player not yet signed and he is expected to be in the fold in a day or two.

Faison, who played out his option with San Diego last season, came to terms with the Chargers just a day after he and General Manager Sid Gillman had denied they were close to an agreement.

Gillman said the terms were "fair to Earl and fair to the club. Absolutely no bonus was involved."

Studstill's agreement with the Lions left only safetyman Bruce Mahar and guard Ted Karras unsigned. The Lions picked up rookie Joe Wellborn from the New York Giants and said they will try him at guard, center or linebacker.

But while some were joining their clubs, others were being cut. Yesterday's roster trims included Eddie Robinson Jr., Bob Walton and Bob Windham of the New York Jets; Marty Sica and Sam Montgomery of Green Bay, Willie Ross of the Buffalo Bills; and Bob Post, Randy Staten, Dick Souells and Peterson Mathews of the New York Giants.

Green Bay traded offensive tackle Ray Schoenke to Cleveland for an undisclosed draft choice, Washington claimed halfback A.D. Whitfield from Montreal and tackle Dave Powless from the Giants. Cleveland sent Dave Lee, a kicking specialist, to Baltimore for a future draft choice.

Mack To Pitch For Mill Valley Nine Tomorrow

Hoping to snap out of a three game losing streak and improve on their 4-7 season record, the Mill Valley Merchants entertain the San Pablo A's tomorrow, 1:30 p.m., at Mill Valley's Optimist Field.

Manager Bob Selna has announced that former Tamalpais High and College of Marin star Fred Mack will make his first pitching effort in more than two years, an inactivity necessitated by an arm ailment that ruined a promising career.

Leading hitter for Mill Valley are Roy Giusti, Fred Rodoni and Bill Brodie. The latter leads the team in runs batted in with 12.

Litchfield '9' Vs. St. Helena Tomorrow Night

Litchfield's semi-pro baseballers of San Rafael, fresh from a respectable third place finish in the State Semi-Pro Finals, take to the road again tomorrow evening for a night at St. Helena.

Southpaw hurler Bob De Rosa and newly-acquired righthander Ben Trujillo, formerly with the Houston Astros, are scheduled to split the mound chores for the winter league champs of San Rafael. Also added to the roster recently is Nick Willard, former Novato High School athlete and presently attending the University of San Francisco. Willard will see infield duty, probably at third base.

Jess Munyon, named the most valuable player in the recent softball tourney held at Albert Park, will be back in harness behind the plate for Litchfield's.

The Litchfield nine will continue its independent schedule for the balance of the summer season while preparing for the coming winter league.

Army To Check Beach Erosion

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has agreed to investigate the beach erosion problem near Bolinas, Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, Calif., announced today.

In a letter to Clausen, Lt. Col Frank C. Boerger, the Army Corps' district engineer in San Francisco, said he plans to use the small projects provision of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1962 as authority for the study.

"As you know, funds for investigations and construction under this act are available to the Corps of Engineers, and construction, if found feasible and economically justified, may be authorized by the Secretary of the Army" without further congressional action, Boerger said.

Today is Saturday, July 30, the 211th day of 1966 with 154 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn; there are no evening stars.

American automobile manufacturer Henry Ford I was born on this day in 1863.

On this day in history:

In 1619, the first American representative assembly convened at Jamestown, Va.

In 1916, German saboteurs blew up a munitions plant outside Jersey City, N.J.

In 1937, a new union was formed, the American Federation of Radio Artists.

In 1942, President Franklin Roosevelt formed the WAVES (woman appointed voluntary emergency services) in the navy.

A thought for the day — British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill said: "Nothing in life is so exhilarating as to be shot at without result."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Player's Eyes Are For Seeing, Ears For Listening To Bidding

A certain kind of bridge player needs his ears to keep his eyeglasses from slipping down.

This is unimportant, however, because even with his eyeglasses in place he cannot see what he is looking at. A bridge hand will prove the point.

Opening lead — ♣ 7

West led the seven of clubs, and South won with the nine. Declarer led diamonds until West took the ace.

West then desperately led a low spade, and South won with the king.

South ran off his diamonds and the top hearts, for a total of ten tricks, scoring game and rubber.

There wasn't much to the play of the cards after the first trick, but West's opening lead should confirm those opening remarks about eyes and ears.

TWO STOPPERS

West heard South bid no-trump twice.

This almost surely meant that South had two stoppers in clubs.

West also heard North jump to three diamonds.

This almost surely meant that dummy's long suit would provide enough tricks for game unless West could develop five tricks in a tearing hurry.

If West looked at his cards, he would see that he could not develop five very fast tricks with the clubs — but that the spades might do the job.

A high spade lead would work out best, but West need not be a mind reader.

If he leads the fourth-highest spade, East plays the queen to force out the king.

Then West has three spades and two side aces to defeat the contract before South can get started.

Seminoles Are Modernizing

MIAMI (AP)—The U. S. Indian Bureau gradually is persuading the Seminoles living in the Florida Everglades to move from their thatch Chickees into more modern housing.

Electric stoves and refrigerators are provided with the new homes, but these appear to have far less appeal than television sets, which are not provided.

Some Seminoles have bought sets while they continue to cook outside over an open fire.

Second Deck Plan Costs Requested

Special to the I-J

SANTA ROSA — The engineering firm of Ammann and Whitney of New York today has been requested to prepare an estimate of what they will charge for detailed blueprints for a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Bridge district directors yesterday voted 10 to 4 to make the request. Proponents stressed the request means "selecting" an engineering firm, not hiring one to do the plans, which have been estimated to cost $200,000.

Directors agreed that in effect this eliminates a second firm, Tudor Engineering Co. of San Francisco, which had submitted a lower deck plan with different traffic features.

Voting against the resolution were Directors Edwin Fraser, S. C. Leonoudakis, Ben K. Lerer and William Moskovitz. Most of them said the vote was premature. Both Marin directors, Thomas D. Hardcastle and George H. Ludy, voted with the majority.

The motion was made by Director Lowell Edington of Napa County and was seconded by Director Dan London of San Francisco. Edington's motion contained a request to Ammann and Whitney to submit its estimate immediately for detailed construction costs so that the bridge district financial feasibility studies could begin.

The principle of a second deck to relieve traffic congestion was adopted last Oct. 29 and then the two firms were invited to submit preliminary feasibility studies.

The plan of Ammann and Whitney, calling for a new four land automobile deck below the present one, was favored by Clifford E. Paine, famous consulting engineer.

London stated that since it is unethical to ask engineer firms to compete on fees, the motion in effect selects Ammann and Whitney although it does not obligate the district to take their offer or to build the second deck. He said, "We started this conversation in 1954, and it's time we got it off the ground."

Marin Director Hardcastle said he resents "the implication of San Francisco supervisors that their bridge directors would do exactly as told." He was referring to published reports that San Francisco Director Lerer assured a committee of the San Francisco supervisors that he would not vote for a second deck without an expression from the San Francisco supervisors.

Arguing for a second deck, Hardcastle declared that the Division of Highways is already planning to add a fourth lane from Greenbrae to the Golden Gate Bridge. "With the Sausalito lateral, that means five lanes will run into the four lanes of the bridge."

Hardcastle wanted to know if San Francisco supervisors were going to treat Marin commuters "as blood brothers or country cousins."

"Some of us must decide soon whether to move out of Marin if traffic conditions don't improve," Hardcastle added. "The economy of San Francisco today depends in great part on the commuter."

Sierra Land Held Forever For Forest Growth Uses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—More than 126,000 acres of timber land owned by American Forest Products Corp. in the Sierra, will be certified within the American Tree Farm System next month, the company said yesterday.

The lands involved are in Amador, El Dorado and Calaveras counties.

The dedication ceremony will be Aug. 11 at Hermit Springs, Calaveras County, a historic Indian camping point 40 miles east of Jackson.

The land will be dedicated to the perpetual growth of forest products and the furtherance of wildlife, watershed and recreation facilities.

American Forest Products Corp. is one of 30,000 land owners who have set aside more than 67 million acres for those purposes.

Board To Be Asked To Approve Budget

Tamalpais Union High School District board will be asked to approve a $7,586,996 budget for fiscal 1967 when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in district offices.

Adoption of the budget is scheduled to follow a public hearing on the proposal. Business director Frank Cassou has said there will not be a "material change" in the district's present tax rate of $2.205 per $100 assessed valuation.

Many people are pleasantly surprised to discover the variety of civic activities each day in the Community Room at Ross Valley Savings. Many of San Anselmo's clubs and community organizations are taking advantage of this convenient, cheerful meeting place.

The Community Room is just one of many extra services you'll find at Ross Valley. For example, you'll appreciate the most up-to-date safety deposit vault in Marin—and it's service with a smile when you pull up to the drive-in window. Of course, if you'd like to drop in, there's ample free parking, too. And don't forget; there's a hot cup of coffee waiting for you. But you can also do business with Ross Valley without even leaving your home or office. Just use our convenient save-by-mail plan.

When you save at Ross Valley Savings, you earn 5.09% on regular passbook accounts when our 5% current annual rate is compounded quarterly and maintained for one year. No minimum balance required. Daily interest is paid from date received if held to quarter's end. And, you can earn 5½% on $1,000 Minimum Term Investment Certificates (that's an extra bonus of ½% interest per year as declared quarterly when held for 3 years). You have the privilege of withdrawing your funds before the 3 year period is up and they will still earn at our regular 5% current annual rate.

Rancher Granted Assessment Trim

The assessment value of a Marin County ranch—listed by the state as an agricultural preserve—was slashed by $31,500 yesterday after a three-hour hearing by the board of supervisors, meeting as a board of equalization.

The board held that George W. Wheelwright should pay taxes on his Green Gulch ranch on its assessment as agricultural land alone—and not on what it might fetch in the market place.

Chairman Byron W. Leydecker said no evidence had been presented to show that Wheelwright's assessment could be worked out on any other basis.

After reviewing the agricultural value of 10 parcels of ranch property, the board arrived at the revised assessment value of $28,400 instead of the $69,910 imposed by Assessor Bert W. Broemmel.

Attorney Casper W. Weinberger, representing Wheelright, contended that as agricultural preserve under the California Land Conservation Act, the ranch was restricted to sole agricultural use by a continuing 10-year contract.

It should be assessed on this use alone, and not on its value when sold after ten years, Weinberger argued.

The board agreed. Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen said: "I cannot see why the county cannot assume this land is permanently agricultural for all intent and purposes it is".

He said the time to re-assess the land was either when the owner indicated he wanted to terminate the agreement, or when a sale of some of the restricted land gave some idea of its value on the market.

Broemmel produced an attorney general's opinion to show he was within his rights to assess the ranch during the term of the contract "on the highest and best use" of the land.

The opinion went on to declare that although agricultural preservations limited the value of land by restricting its use, the act did not "run foul of the valuation principles which the constitution requires the assessor to follow."

Broemmel said, "For the good of the county, it was necessary for us to try and value this property at the price we think it would sell for."

Supervisors Peter H. Behr and William A. Gnoss were absent when the board arrived at its decision.

Budget Adoption To Be Requested

San Anselmo School District board will be asked to adopt a final budget which would mean an 18-cent increase in the district's over-all tax rate when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Isabel Cook School faculty room.

Adoption will follow a public hearing on Supt. Stephen Parodi's proposed $1,421,077 budget for fiscal 1967. This budget calls for an increase from $2.95 per $100 assessed valuation to $3.13.

The increase would all come in override taxes. Ten cents would come in a special tax for seventh and eighth grade education, levied for the first time in the district. Five cents would be in a health and welfare override to pay for employee health insurance. The remainder would go for state loan repayments.

The board will also meet with district residents who have been asked to serve on a citizen's committee on district financing which will consider proposals for a bond issue and a hike in the district's operating tax.

Probation Granted On Tiburon Traffic Death

Lynnea C. Topham, 26-year-old Tiburon resident convicted of misdemeanor manslaughter in the March 21 traffic death of a Strawberry boy, was given one-year suspended county jail sentence yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. also placed her on three years supervised probation, ordered her to begin psychotherapy treatments within 30 days, and suspended her driving privileges for at least a year.

Defense attorney Edwin Caldwell promptly gave notice of appeal. He said Judge Goldstein had no authority to impose the driving restriction.

Mrs. Topham, of 148 Leland Street, was released on her own recognizance and stay of execution of the sentence was given on condition that she not operate a motor vehicle pending outcome of the appeal.

Mrs. Topham was found guilty June 22 by a jury in the death of Robert Carl Scholz, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scholz of 7 Barn Road. The car she was driving struck the youth as he crossed Tiburon Boulevard.

California Highway Patrol said witnesses said she went through a red traffic light.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Goldstein commented that although a jail sentence was warranted, he was suspending incarceration because the defendant has "deep-seated" emotional problems. Too, he said, jail might place the "defendant beyond the reach of any effective counsel," and that there are also her two children to consider.

He reprimanded Mrs. Topham for a "continued" attitude that such an accident "could have happened to anyone." He said, "This was not an unavoidable accident."

Dist. Atty Bruce B. Bales had recommended that at least a 90-day jail term be imposed. The probation department recommended two years probation and psychiatric treatment.

Ships That Sail In Search Of Gold

See Page M2

Sea-Going 'Prospectors' From Tiburon

U.S. Sets Stage For Potential New Industry Of Marine Mining

By BILL ARNOLD

Alaskan bound ships are leaving San Francisco Bay in search of undersea gold, silver and platinum under a new phase of a U.S. Department of Interior program.

It isn't another gold strike that's sending government ships to Alaska, but the need to know more about the new field of detection and mining of precious minerals in "the last frontier."

COORDINATED under the department's Marine Minerals Technology Center in Tiburon, the program is designed to encourage the development of a privately owned marine mining industry and to give the government information on which it can later set policy in the new field.

The three-year-old Marine Minerals Center at Tiburon is a joint operation by two departmental agencies — the U.S. Bureau of Mines and the U.S. Geological Survey. Bureau of Mines engineers staff the center now, with survey scientists expected to arrive later this fiscal year.

"The marine field is just now really opening up," according to Harold D. Hess, a project leader with the Bureau of Mines, "beause of the increased demands nations are placing on resources." Phosphorites, tin and tungsten are among the other heavy minerals the marine center will search for.

FOR THE PAST three years the center has been involved with outfitting ships, improving undersea search techniques and perfecting instrumentation.

This fiscal year, with a $1,200,000 budget that is three times greater than last year's, the center is ready to begin actual ocean searching.

The present center staff of 18 is expected to double soon in the continuing open-ended program.

Recently, the center acquired a 205-foot navy tug to add to its two-ship exploration fleet. The tug, which is now undergoing reactivation at Fulton Shipyards in Antioch, has a range of 12,000 miles at a 10-knot speed, good for several months at sea.

NAMED THE Virginia City by the center, the tug will undergo extensive modification to prepare her for Alaskan waters. Included will be sensitive detection equipment that can "profile" the sea bottom and penetrate the sub-bottom strata.

So equipped, the Virginia City will carry the center's first long range expedition into Alaska next spring. A geological survey ship has already left a Redwood City port to work this summer in locating mineral deposits.

Although the two Interior Department agencies share the long-range program, the Geological Survey has the dominant role in exploration while the Bureau of Mines is concerned with determining the scope and quality of the deposits once they're found.

The first ship will give information valuable to the Virginia City in the complimentary research program.

ALASKA WAS chosen because of its high potential for heavy mining, according to K. E. Taylor, 61, a retired navy captain and project leader in charge of outfitting the Virginia City. Presently, 17 areas along the whole Alaskan coast have been earmarked for high mineral content potential.

Although some scuba diving will be used, the bulk of the ship's work will be done by surface mounted drilling guided by the detection equipment. Undersea work is being considered for later trips.

The detection equipment is so accurate, Taylor said, that the ship will be able to return within three feet of a previous drilling in 200-foot-deep water.

The other two ships in the center's fleet are the 165-foot Grass Valley, a converted navy net-tender, and the 65-foot Cripple Creek, a former army cargo vessel. All center ships carry the designation "R.V." which stands for "research vessel."

FOR GOOD luck, the ships carry the names of famous mining strikes. "We thought it was appropriate to give them mining area names that were historically the biggest producers," Hess said.

"To give us experience" the two smaller vessels are being used for short trips around the

"GOOD GROOMER COUNT DOWN"

Today's teen man, unlike his grandfather, does not have to depend on a young woman to care for him. He grooms himself for his family, his business, or professional role in life. It is easy to cultivate daily habits of good grooming says the National Institute of Drycleaning and suggests a chart be placed on your mirror to guide a daily countdown.

10. Clean pocket comb; Cloth or paper handkerchief.
9. Jacket free of spots and stain; neatly pressed.
8. Nails clean, clipped, filed.
7. Hands, including arms, washed with soap. Deodorant applied.
6. Shoes, shined and repaired.
5. Socks and underclothes, clean daily.
4. Slacks or trousers, free from spots and stains, neatly pressed.
3. Shirt, fresh and clean. Tie straight.
2. Face, neck, ears washed with soap. Teeth cleaned, mouth rinsed.
1. Hair, trimmed, clean; combed neatly.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Two items that can make a vacation live on after it is over are a camera and a portable battery operated tape recorder. The battery operated type recorder has design problems that are not so severe as the AC operated unit.

If you're contemplating the purchase of a portable recorder, what are the items you should look for? First of all, any tape recorder worth having must operate with a capstan type drive. This means that the tape must be moved past the record/play head by means of a turning shaft and roller that turn at constant speed, and not a rheostat controlled motor speed. The recorder must have standard speeds such as 1⅞, 3¾, 7½ inches per second or any grouping of these speeds. A unit with a variable speed controlled motor for tape drive will not be compatible with other tape recorders.

An AC operated recorder uses the line voltage and the line frequency to operate the motor. Since these two items are held to fairly close tolerances by PG&E, the motor is turning at a constant speed. A battery operated motor is a DC type motor, and its speed depends entirely on the battery voltage. Obviously, as the battery ages and is used, the voltage drops. Unless the design of the recorder incorporates some speed stabalizing feature, the tape speed would vary with battery voltage. Therefore, an important feature is a stable speed.

Size of reels—Battery portables are available with 3 inch reel maximum size or with 5 inch reel maximum size. The 3 inch units are smaller and therefore more portable; however, you sacrifice playing and recording time with the smaller reels. The 5 inch recorders are still quite small but provide twice the playing and recording time per reel. The 5 inch reel units generally have more flexible operating features. Some even contain AM radios as part of the unit.

A helpful feature found on some portable recorders is the ability to use the recorder on household AC current as well as on the batteries. This means that while at home, the batteries need not be wasted.

Prices of portables range from $39.50 up to $179.50. The professional series range as high as $440.00. Visit our show rooms for a personal demonstration.

bay, Hess said.

The center is working with the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings in taking samplings for potential second Bay crossing sites. Upcoming trips include a joint Bay sampling venture with the State Division of Mines and Geology and a trip to Drake's Bay in "the near future" to test marine instruments.

THE CENTER is also getting information from several West Coast universities, the navy and the Army Corps of Engineers. "We need a lot of information about undersea environment," Hess said, "because so little is known."

Research director of the center is Arthur P. Nelson, 53, of Tiburon. Under him as project leaders, besides Taylor, are Hess, 41, of Terra Linda, in charge of resource delineation; Adolph M. Poston 43, of San Rafael, in charge of instrumentation, and Richard L. Jenkins, 34, of San Anselmo, mineral sampling.

The Marine Minerals Technology Center is one part of the Interior Department's Tiburon Oceanographic Center. The bureaus of sports fisheries and wildlife and of commercial fisheries are also housed there.

The 77-acre installation was once the Tiburon Net Depot, a net-tending station for the navy, which still uses part of it for instrument testing.

The Artist Who Works In A Milk Shed

Marty Pagan Finds Mill Valley Hideaway Is Perfect For His Surrealistic Painting

ARTIST MARTY PAGAN uses the stone steps of the old milk shed that has become his home and studio for the cleaning of his brushes. The painter lives and works in the quiet hideaway at 5 Madera Way, Mill Valley, on the Dias Ranch.

(Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Pagan is a happy man who paints in an old milk shed on the cowless Dias Ranch above Mill Valley.

It is a windy, thistly place where horses are boarded, and the artist cleans his paint brushes outside against stone steps once used for loading milk cans.

Marty Pagan, 38, began painting at 13 when he created five murals for a Baptist church in Dallas, Tex.

"God has sent him," the ministers said.

SOMETIMES, HE recalls, he was so inspired about his work that he awakened at night and begged the pastor to take him to the church to continue his painting.

"I started painting when I was a kid. My father and mother separated when I was 2. I didn't have a baby sitter. I spent all my time alone."

Pagan's mural-painting stopped at a time when he was flunking out of school. "I would get so involved that I couldn't think of anything else. Mother was mad at the whole works. She took my pencils and brushes away and wouldn't let me paint any more. She said, 'All artists starve to death. Be a doctor or something.' "

THE ARTIST says he was good in chemistry, so his mother thought he would have a good chance as a doctor or in chemistry work.

Pagan finished high school, then went to business administration college and studied business law for a few months.

"I left home at 18," he relates. "When a pheasant is born, they come out of the shell running. I was born at 18. No sooner did I get to where I could hit the ground, than I took off running and I made about every state in the whole country.

"I HAVE WORKED at construction, on the railroad, as a merchant seaman and eight years in the Navy.

"I had just about burned my life up doing those things and I said to myself I have got to get busy and start doing what I started out to do when I was a kid."

Pagan, pronounced Pa-gon, came to San Francisco in 1959. A friend saw him working as a carpenter and asked, "why aren't you painting?"

"MY FRIEND went to the Glide Foundation and they helped get me a job as an art teacher at a Methodist church in San Francisco." The foundation is an enabling, non-profit organization connected with the Methodist church. Pagan said the foundation bought some of his paintings and one sculpture, and "put me on my feet."

Pagan did no painting from childhood until 1959.

He recalls, too, when he went to a street fair on San Francisco's Grant Avenue and told himself, "I can paint a ring around all these guys."

"THE FIRST thing I did sold. It was a good little painting. In a year's time I had a studio of my own on Fulton Street. Then I had a one-man show."

Pagan, self-taught with no formal art education, is a surrealist.

"Now I'm aiming to one day go back to my original style and work months at a surrealist painting," he says. "And, some day, I want to go to Africa," he adds.

"WHY?" HE was asked. "Because Africa needs art and Africa has a lot to give me. I would like to stay four or five years and work with an African painter I know."

Asked if being a Negro makes the life of a painter more difficult, Pagan answers, "No, I think I have advantages as a Negro.

"In the art group I was in, they would see a Negro and they would wonder what he does. They would stop. This way they got to see the show. They were amazed at the fact that it made sense and usually they bought. I sold more than any artist in the show—always. My friends understood this."

QUERIED AS to his age, the quick-to-laugh Pagan says, "I'm too old to do all the things I had planned, so I'm cancelling out the things that aren't as important as others. I had enough to go 400 to 500 years. I cut it down to a life-time."

Pagan, with his wife, Marcia, also an artist, started a summer course in fine arts for children ages 7 to 16 this month.

For this, the one-time carpenter made each child his own easel of redwood. He offers instruction twice a week in drawing, painting, watercolors, collage, sculpture and ceramics.

HE SAYS HE has taught art to adults at the Unitarian-Universalist Church of Marin in San Rafael.

"I want to give scholarships to children in Marin City whom I believe have talent," says Pagan. He says he will try to get persons to sponsor the scholarships and may get some help through Glide Foundation.

Pagan's studio and school is on the main tourist road and Gray Line sightseeing buses sometimes stop for tourists to take pictures. They used to photograph a painting Pagan had tacked up on the outside wall of the barn. Then the painting was stolen.

"IT WAS A surrealistic painting called 'Noah's Ark'," says Pagan, "as I thought it would look if they actually found it. It came about in a dream. This was when I lived on a boat in Sausalito. I got up at 2 o'clock in the morning and got a door. I put white paint on it. When it dried, I took it outside. I sketched and started painting. I did it with a gallon of wine and plenty of music. I finished. It was beautiful."

In Pagan's philosophy, he says, he has a strong feeling of brotherhood and a strong belief that the world is just about over populated and that people have lost the true love they used to have when they were threatened by dinosaurs or big animals.

"The only way I can keep hitting at it (love) is in painting so people will get a feeling there is still love and brotherhood in the world."

PAGAN, WHO lives at 6 Madera Way, Mill Valley, likes his barn hideout.

"In the city I could do three paintings in six months. Here I can do three in a week. I have more freedom and less friends. Over there (San Francisco), all these friends. Here you have to be alone. You have to do this (painting) alone and give a part and pieces of your soul each time you do it. There is a little bit of you and of nature in it."

He explained that when he was a boy his mother had to work. "She was a cook and she would come and see me from time to time, while working, and bring me some food. I played classical records, which someone gave me, and made drawings all day long. I had a lonely life. I got to where I loved it.

"You often want to feel like a child again. And this is the only way to get alone again. I get off in my corner and hide for awhile. This is my place to hide."

THE PAINTINGS OF Marty Pagan have a surrealistic quality to them, as demonstrated by the ones pictured above. With no formal art training, Pagan has nevertheless enjoyed a considerable acceptance of his paintings by public and critics alike. Help from the Methodist Church's Glide Foundation helped him launch his art career.

Village Fair Lures The Tourists To Marin

IN ITS HEYDAY as a railroad terminal and ferryboat commuting center, downtown Sausalito was the scene of bustling activity. Yet to be built, on the wooded hillside along Bridgeway as seen in the center of this photograph, was the building that would become the Village Fair.

By DON KEOWN

In 10 short years, Sausalito's colorful shopping complex, the Village Fair, has become a Marin landmark and a major tourist attraction.

Every week, some 5,000 visitors from around the world ramble up and down the hillside complex, over winding stairways and walks, and past floral and art displays and handsome fountains.

They find merchandise ranging from fortune-telling candles to handcarvings done by aborigines.

FOR THEM, the Village Fair has become a "must stop" sightseeing attraction on their schedules.

For Sausalitans living nearby, it is more of a shopping center where they can find the answers to most of their buying needs.

For the men and women who work within its attractive shops, the Village Fair is something of a town in itself.

THE ORIGINAL building was constructed in the 1920s and served first as a meeting place

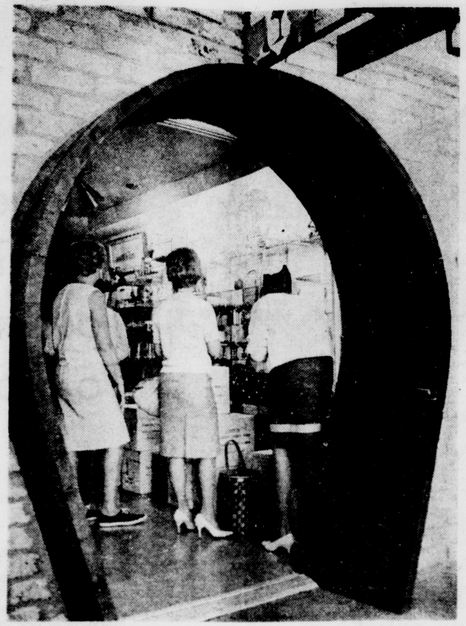
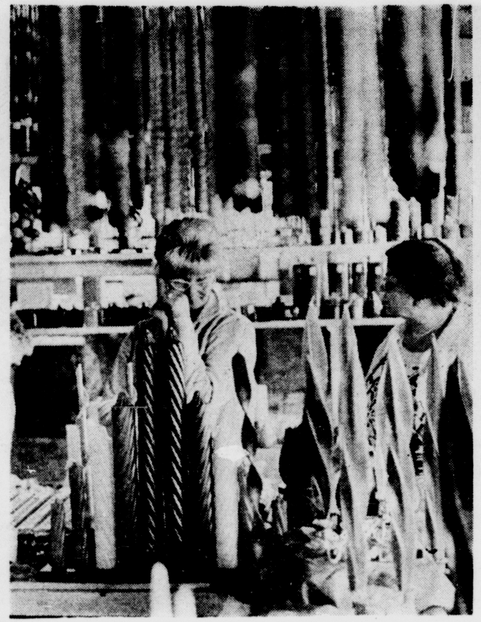
THIS LONG LINE-UP of mailboxes on the street floor of the Village Fair is indicative of the huge and varied assortment of shops housed in the colorful shopping complex that fronts on Sausalito's Bridgeway. There are 38 establishments in all.



THE LOOMIS Wine Tasting Room on the second level at the Village Fair is a popular attraction with many Sausalito visitors.



THE CANDLESTICK is a Village Fair shop dealing in just what its name implies, but in a creative array of sizes, shapes and colors.

BROTMAN'S on the street level floor of the Village Fair is a quality shop dealing in art and fine gifts.

WINDING RAMPS, stairways and walks are part of the unique flavor of the Village Fair, as are the paintings, statuary and fountains that beautify the passages.

for Chinese clubs. Soon, however, it housed gambling operations for several San Francisco tongs. The click of mah jong tiles were to be heard nightly. Vague rumors of "an opium den" (ill-founded) caused officials to close the building.

In an era when Sausalito was something of a seat for bootlegging operations, the Midwestern gangster "Baby Face" Nelson hid out near the establishment for several months after a bank robbery.

Later, an alert businessman purchased the structure and put it to use as a garage for ferryboat commuters.

WITH THE START of World War II, the Navy took over the building as a warehouse for cargo headed across the Pacific.

Ten years ago, it was opened as the Village Fair, a tasteful conglomeration of independently operated and highly individualistic shops. A series of additions have extended the complex up the hillside and increased the number of stores within its few floors to 38.

Senior "residents" today are Imports from Europe, owned by Al Weiner and dealing in European-made goods ranging from gadgets to toys; Littlest Angel, Jean Hawkins' establishment featuring infants' and children's clothing and gifts, and the Tiki, a women's stylish clothing store owned by Ruth Gerten.

THE SMALLEST shop is named, appropriately enough, the Shoestring, and it offers an array of novelties.

At Hanna Leathers, customers can sit in an old church pew and watch leather craft being done by brother and sister Hank and Martha Hanna.

John Korenian of the Korenian Rug Co. recently unveiled a masterpiece in the only series of tapestries in the world depicting American history. The pieces ranged in size from seven by eight feet, to more than 40 feet high, and showed such historic scenes as George Washington's inauguration, the purchase of Manhattan, and Indian battles. The tapestries reflect a life of travel and collecting by Korenian, who has refused a $250,000 offer from a Dutch museum for part of his collection.

IT IS THE cosmopolitan air of the Fair that so fascinates many visitors. They find themselves browsing among paintings done in Japan, kilts from Scotland, shawls from Finland, sweaters from Norway, food delicacies from scores of lands, etc.

Many of the merchants are as interesting as their establishments and their goods.

George Worden, who heads House of Fraser, is a man who learned to fly an airplane at 58 — simply because his wife had told him he was getting into a rut and should learn a new hobby. Today, at 64, he is a skilled water skier.

INGE PILVINIS, who manages a glassblowing shop, spent his youth as a member of the Danish underground during World War II.

Harold Geller is an honored portrait painter whose work is known in Paris, New York and Cape Cod.

As a student at Notre Dame University, Ray Roy sold electric guitars to farmers — who did not have electricity.

Roy is the president of the Village Fair Assn. Other officers are Mort McMichael, vice president, and Jack Hazen, secretary-treasurer. Marie Kay, Bob Campbell, Weiner and Worden serve in the board of directors.

IT IS PLACES, products and people like these — and the unique atmosphere of the Village Fair — that has made it a Marin tourist attraction rivaling Muir Wood, Mount Tamalpais and Point Reyes. Ordinary tourists and celebrities alike come there to enjoy the special flavor of the place.

The person you are passing on the steps might be Barbara Hutton, Lucille Ball, Dick Van Dyke, Barry McGuire, Artie Shaw, a U.N. delegate from Africa, an Arabian prince or a young French priest bound for Viet Nam.

They have all been there.

But for the most part throngs that crowd the shops are simply sightseers who have heard that when you are in the Bay Area, Sausalito's Village Fair is one of the places that must be seen.

PORTRAIT ARTIST Harold Geller puts the finishing touches on a charcoal likeness of Mrs. Eileen Halmowitz, a Village Fair visitor from Jacksonville, Fla. The "arty" atmosphere that makes Sausalito so interesting to tourists is especially prevalent in the Village Fair with its artists-at-work and fine art galleries.

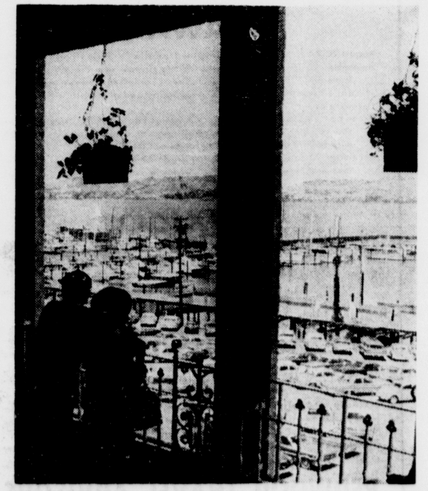
FOR THE sweet-toothed, the Sugar and Spice Shop with its candies and other sweets is a tempting paradise.



PART OF THE charm of the Village Fair is the view from its upper levels. Visitors here look down on Sausalito's boat harbor from the third floor hallway.

Mexico Is Wide Awake

Any resemblance between Modern Mexico and the figure of an Indian in a big hat sleeping in the shade is not even a coincidence.

It is a picturesque manner of promoting tourism. But it in no way reflects the country which is growing at a rapid pace and where sophistication keeps in step.

THE TOURIST with his camera looks for the sleeping figure. They make these figures in bookends and put them on posters.

But Mexico is hard at work these golden days building industry and stepping up agriculture. Most of the cities and big towns have even knocked off that glorious old institution, the siesta.

City workers dodge out for a quick lunch and get back to work. In the small towns and villages, you still hit the afternoon nap. Close shop at 2 and open at 4 p.m. Stoney silence in between.

Mexico's gross national product last year topped the 19 billion dollar mark.

SALES ARE soaring. Bank deposits are up. Industry is expanding. More land is going into cultivation. The whole country is booming.

Greater facilities have been filling the demand for more education at higher levels in an effort to keep pace with other advanced nations. This has increased earning power and purchasing power. And has put more money into circulation than ever before.

The Travel Pages

THE WOMAN visitor who desires to travel light can leave her heavier coats at home when she goes to Mexico and rely upon a rain-or-shine coat in white that is ideal for travel, for sightseeing (in Guadalajara in the photo at left) or even for evening wear. While short shorts are definitely out and even Bermudas are not worn in the cities, the latter are perfectly acceptable and comfortable for trips such as to the Teotihuacan pyramids outside Mexico City (at right). The fabric for both garments is Eastman Kodel polyester and cotton.

A Wardrobe For South Of Border

Mexico is now the place in the sun as more and more enterprising travelers discover the charm of a country where the Old and the New are cheek-to-cheek.

What's to do south of the border?

Everything! Dancing in Acapulco, beaching in the sleepy fishing village of Puerto Vallarta, sight-seeing in gracious Guadalajara, or romping through centuries of history in Mexico City where the ancient world vies with glistening modernity for attention, this country is the newest traveler's paradise.

DURING THE year, more than one million Americans travel to Mexico with the heaviest concentration during the months of July and August.

Most Americans begin their sightseeing in Mexico City whose chief charm lies in its startling contrasts — barefooted women wrapped in shawls walk side-by-side with the most elegant-dressed and coiffed ladies. Visitors ought not to miss the Shrine of the Virgin of Guadalupe, the awe-inspiring cathedral of the city, and the National Palace with its splendid murals by the late Diego Rivera. Chapultepec Park with its giant trees and the "floating" gardens at Xochimilco are tourist "musts."

A Suggested Wardrobe For Milady's 'Mexican Playride'

Because there is so much in Mexico City, many travelers on their first visit miss half the country. Yet the coastal towns of Vera Cruz aand Mazatlan, the Spanish colonial cities of Guadalajara and Puebla are completely fascinating.

FOR THE female traveler, the ever-present "What shall I wear?" dilemma is solved, in part, by the country's superb temperate climate. When you pack, choose a wardrobe carefully — then take half. Everyone always takes too much and winds up frantically trying to juggle luggage. The secret for voyagers is: Travel light and right.

Here are some wardrobe suggestions for your Mexican playride. Since the country is always magnificently temperate (average reading: 75 degrees) leave your coat behind and opt for a sparkling white rain-and-shine coat. Travel in it, sightsee in it, and stretch a point by wearing it in the evening. It might be slightly underdressed but that's still preferable to lugging around too many coats.

Take along two or three little dresses — one at least that's sleeved so there's no embarrassment when you visit one of Mexico's stunning churches. Pack in a sleeveless muu-muu dress for sultry days and a dressier style for evenings.

FOR LAZING around the beautiful beaches — Acapulco (in the main stream) and Puerto Vallarta (off the beaten path) —take a swim suit with its own cover up.

The question of slacks, Bermudas, and shorts is tricky. Mexican women never wear them in the cities and if you're looking for a good rule-of-thumb, it's best when in Mexico to do as the Mexicans do. However, if you're touring by car or are off on a day-long excursion to let's say the Teotihuacan pyramids outside of Mexico City, it's acceptable to wear slacks or Bermudas. But leave your short shorts at home.

Part of the clothes problem on any vacation trip is the right sleepwear. Since all-nylon tricot is generally too sticky for warm climates, select a fabric blend that can be washed in a trice in the morning and will be ready again for wearing that night. Consider taking a two-in-one combination like a long sleep gown which doubles as a lounging robe. Avoid pajamas — you'll probably forget the bottoms somewhere and be stuck for the rest of the trip!

TAKE ALONG medium-heel comfortable shoes, a pair of packaged slippers and a flat walking shoe. Taking sandals to Mexico is very like the proverbial coals to Newcastle; the native markets are rife with a delicious assortment of straw shoes, espadrilles, and huaraches (native sandals).

To plan a Mexican playride, first contact the Mexican National Tourist Council, 2 East 55th Street, New York, New York 10022, for a whole raft of information of what-to-do-and-see in this beautiful country.

Planning a Pool?

Anthony builds more pools than the fifteen largest single pool builders combined!*

Why do more people choose Anthony? Why do more people recommend Anthony? They like the service. They like the exclusive accessories Anthony makes; such as better diving boards, heaters, automatic cleaners, and many other things.

They like the proof of security Anthony offers, with an annually audited financial report that tells them about Anthony's $2.9-million net worth and $1-million-plus cash in the bank. They know by this that they have freedom from worries.

They believe Phil Anthony's slogan, "If you haven't received service from Anthony, you haven't asked for it."

Why take a chance? Call the best and the biggest for your pool. The price is right.

*In 1965 in all of Southern California, where more pools are built, building permits show that Anthony built more pools than the next fifteen largest single pool builders combined. (By single pool builders we refer to those who are not a group of franchised builders.) Anthony also built more pools than all franchised builders combined.

Teamwork By Poets Brings Us The Work Of A Russian Bard

ANTIWORLDS, Poetry by Andrei Voznesensky, Basic Books Inc., 190 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

A disciple of Pasternak, this internationally known Russian poet won wide acclaim when he read here in the Bay Area recently. He has now been made available to us through some of our own topflight poets, including the dean, W. H. Auden.

The method of translation required close, painstaking cooperation from all hands. Given literal translations and prosodic models by the illustrious translator, Max Hayward, the six American poets checked with him continually as they worked, striving to preserve the essence of the poems by keeping as close as possible to the meaning and intent of the originals.

ANDREI VOZNESENSKY
Forceful, beautiful

Obviously, even the most skillful translation can do no more than approximate. For the poetry must be ripped from its native culture of associations, allusions, connotations unknown abroad — to say nothing of the rhythm and syntax from which it was composed.

To judge Voznesenskys' work as it is filtered through translation is of course impossible. Much must necessarily be lost, but one gains a strong impression of a gifted poet with a wide range. How much is owed to the American collaborator-poets, one cannot know, but the finished poems are undeniably forceful and beautiful.

Classic Tragedy—Grim, Unrelenting

COUNTRY OF OLD MEN by Paul Olsen, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 248 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Frank Farrara.

This is a tragedy in the classic sense that transcends the basic plot that could have been molded into soap opera by less skillful hands.

In his deeply moving, sometimes violent, tale of two families, Olsen reveals the turmoil that results from lack of understanding and communication between the young and the old.

At odds are John Roger Williams, a drunken field hand, and Cass Nowell, a self-righteous selectman in a small New England town.

Nowell, whose wife died in childbirth, is strongly attached to his daughter, Martha, and Williams, who hounded his wife to death, desperately seeks to hold his son, Matthew.

As fate has it, the two youngsters become lovers, Ironically, their affair is as much a rebellion to escape the bondage of their homes as it is a matter of sentiment.

When the fathers intervene with their misconceptions, the result is tragic for all.

Olsen's tale is grim and unrelenting, striking at the core of human behavior with unadorned prose. At the age of 33, neither young nor old, he has managed to capture both the spirit of the young and the old.

The Conversion Of A Skeptic

INCIDENT AT EXETER by John G. Fuller, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 251 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Reviews Of New Reading

Author Fuller didn't, as of mid-September, 1965.

Fuller, a regular columnist for the Saturday Review of Literature, took leave from his desk to investigate a rash of unidentified flying object reports which began pouring from Exeter, N.H., after Sept. 3.

By the time he had finished in April, 1966, Fuller had tape-recorded more than 60 hours of eyewitness reports, come up with one reasonably authenticated photo of a glowing object in the sky, and had seen — from afar — one possible UFO.

The results were first a widely publicized article in Look magazine, then a television special program broadcast nationwide, and now this book. It's fascinating reading.

Between the time he wrote the book and its publication, the rash of March sightings broke out in Michigan and elsewhere; a scientist working for the Air Force branded the phenomena "marsh gas," and a congressional inquiry fizzled.

The questions Fuller put still remain:

Hundreds of reliable witnesses have seen something not explainable by ordinary happenings — what have they seen?

Also, why hasn't the government made any really thorough investigation? Or, if this has been done, why is it under wraps?

Fuller voices a strong suspicion that the government is engaged in the greatest conspiracy of news management since Pearl Harbor. He blames a paternalistic fear of public panic.

Sincere, reliable witnesses, he reports, have been hurt by Air Force and other authorities' statements practically condemning UFO sighters to the ranks of the crackpot "saucer clubs," whose members claim to have ridden about with Little Green Men.

Fuller's points about Air Force hugger-mugger over the sightings, incidentally, is fully borne out by Marin County clippings in the Independent-Journal's own library.

Fuller carefully develops the points that there are reliable witnesses, hard-to-disprove photographs, recorded effects of animals in the neighborhood of UFO sightings, Air Force and civilian radar sightings and other data. He logically rules out the possibility of either U.S. or foreign terrestrial power development of a secret weapon.

His conclusion is that there must be something visiting from outer space.

He's very convincing; we mainly wonder about his conjecture that UFOs were tied somehow to the great New England blackout of Nov. 9, 1965.

FOR THE WOMEN

Glamour Staff Assembles Best From Their Magazine

GLAMOUR'S BEAUTY BOOK by the editors of Glamour Magazine, Simon and Schuster, 320 pages, $9.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

The staff of Glamour Magazine offers this book as their "encyclopedia of beauty" for American women.

From the pages of their successful magazine, the editors have chosen the material which, they believe, when put together constitutes a complete course in personal care for milady.

The goal is over-all personal improvement, both physical and spiritual, and the subjects covered include care of face, figure, eyes, hair. There are articles on charm and health habits, on sex appeal, diet, exercise, fashions, etc.

The methods of attaining natural good health and looks, and the use of cosmetics and clothing in creating an attractive appearance both receive detailed attention.

The book, profusely illustrated, is a comprehensive one, well written and well prepared, and will be especially useful to the younger woman or to the young girl. They will find answers to just about every problem from the control of acne to the choice of a perfume.

For the most part, the editors have relied upon Glamour's patented "makeover" technique by which the reader can follow, step-by-step, the improvement that takes place as a suggested technique is applied to a model. Instructions are detailed and easily understood. Charts when needed, such as in the dietary section, supplement the textual and illustrative material.

There are profiles, too, of "14 of the world's most attractive men" and some Glamour tests to help the reader rate herself and determine her needs.

The people at Glamour have, of course, had a wealth of experience in the field. No one is better qualified to furnish sensible guidance to women on how to take maximum advantage of their fine points and how to minimize their flaws. They seem to have lived up to expectations, and to have produced a book that is worthy of the rather high price tag.

Violent Faces Of Extremism— In This Country And Another

By DON KEOWN

WOMAN OF VIOLENCE by Geula Cohen, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 273 pages, $5.95.

BURN, BABY, BURN by Jerry Cohen and William S. Murphy, E. P. Dutton & Co., 318 pages, $5.95.

Extremism in its more volatile forms almost inevitably flares into violence.

That violence can be a calculated program of harrassment, murder and terrorism, or a sudden, spontaneous, unreasoned explosion of anger.

Two new books deal with these very different kinds of violence.

"WOMAN OF Violence" is the account by a young Jewish patriot, Geula Cohen, of her years, 1943 to 1948, as a member of the underground terrorist Stern Gang in British-mandated Palestine.

The book originally was written in Hebrew, and in that form was much praised for the insight it supposedly gave into the motives and the methods of the most extreme faction among those which fought and worked for a free Palestine. Now it has been translated into English, and I confess a disappointment with its contents.

Gerold Frank had described it as "an autobiography that burns with truth, that forces each of us to re-examine our concepts of violence and guilt . . ."

I detected no such coming to grips with moral issues in Geula Cohen's story.

The writing is honest, sometimes highly emotional, occasionally compelling. It is also fragmentized. And it is not persuasive, nor does it try to be so.

Geula Cohen's enlistment in the outlawed "army" of Abraham Stern was a blind act based on faith and dedication. There, then, is little reason for her to either persuade or disuade her readers, or even to explain. The book is more narrative than it is analytical or interpretive. And we remain unconvinced as to the necessity for the violent road chosen by Geula Cohen and her colleagues because their reasons for selecting a terroristic course that could not always pinpoint its victims are never really explored.

We must shudder at the calm manner in which the young woman accepted the death of the hapless Arab chauffeur who was blown to bits mistakenly by the bomb intended for his employer, a high British official. We cannot forget that even as the Stern Gang assassinated and sabotaged, other British in Europe were giving their lives in a war against the Nazis who had perpetrated the worst atrocities in history against Geula's co-religionists. Nor can the follower of history who applauded the birth of the new state of Israel accept the contention that the Stern Gang played a really formidable role in that achievement. The more moderate, more reasonable factions, if I remember correctly, made far greater contributions.

"BURN, BABY, Burn" deals with a briefer, more recent, totally disorganized time of turmoil and bloodletting in our own country.

It is the report of two reporters from the Los Angeles Times team which won a Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of the race rioting in that city of August, 1965. Jerry Cohen and William S. Murphy have compiled an illuminating, readable, comprehensive, seemingly balanced and completely terrifying account.

It is, to my way of thinking, a better book than Spencer Crump's earlier "Black Riot in Los Angeles," except for illustrations. The few Times photos reproduced in "Burn, Baby, Burn" in no way compare with the outstanding collection printed in the Crump volume.

But Cohen and Murphy, unlike Crump, have not tied themselves to a strict day-by-day, hour-by-hour chronology. This greater flexibility has permitted them to offer a more meaningful, better rounded picture of the disorders. Even more important, the two reporters have done a major research job. Whereas Crump relied extensively upon the McCone Commission Report, Cohen and Murphy have gone out and collected their own material.

The Times reporters display keener insight, too, in their probing for the roots of the problem.

The reader completes their book with a clearer picture of what took place and why. What started as a class war, it seems, soon became an even uglier race war. While younger Negroes with police records made up the bulk of the militants, others older, more respectable, soon joined in, urged them on, or at least sensed a feeling of identity with the rioters. The reader begins to wonder why the psychology of the "mob spirit," no stranger to white Americans, has not been accorded greater attention as a factor in the intensification of the rioting.

The realization develops, too, that when the Negro speaks of "police brutality," he refers not just to physical abuse, but more often to harassment and to contemptuous treatment that injures his dignity.

Cohen and Murphy had the cooperation of just about everyone involved except the Los Angeles Police Department. The Negroes who ran wild in the streets are not condoned by the authors. But officialdom fares poorly, too. The late Police Chief William Parker emerges as a dedicated officer and efficient administrator, but also as a shortsighted man lacking in any public relations sense. Mayor Sam Yorty is even less impressive. Gov. Edmund G. Brown seems childishly naive. And the so-called "Negro leaders" were totally inadequate and ineffective, except for courageous Dick Gregory.

As a local note, former I-J reporter Phil Fradkin, also a Times reporter and the first journalist to become a casualty in the rioting, gets prominent mention in the book.

A VALUABLE addition to any reference shelf is "Atlas of the World," a combined effort on the part of Life and Rand-McNally editors and the concluding volume in the quality Life World Library Series.

Available at a bargain price of $3.95 from Time-Life Books, Time & Life Building, Chicago, the atlas represents a "drawing together" of the earlier components in the series which dealt with particular regions. But it stands alone quite well as a comprehensive, up-to-date, over-all view of the globe as it exists today, with a wealth of map, statistical and general geographical information.

GEULA COHEN is the author of "Woman of Violence: Memoirs of a Young Terrorist, 1943 to 1948." First published in Hebrew and now translated into English, it is the story of her involvement in the fanatical Stern Gang.

Sleuths & Suspense

THE DARK TRADE by Anthony Lejune, Doubleday, 191 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

This little gem, a selection of Doubleday's Crime Club, is one of those quaint books—a mystery that's mysterious.

Lejune has written a throwback to the days when mystery reading was a slow process of wondering, guessing and trying not to turn to the last page.

His hero, far from being a super secret agent, is a very vulnerable, slightly smug newspaperman who does some side sleuthing for a branch of the British Secret Service.

There are a lot of odds and ends that, in the hands of another writer, might have gone to Grove Press. But Lejune handles such matters as a run-in with a lesbian gang of hoodlums and a study of the pornography industry with taste.

Lejune is after the old question—who done it and why? And if his ending, after a number of red herrings, seems just a little pat, it really doesn't matter. Getting there was half the fun.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

ARNOLD SCHOENBERG: Gurre Lieder — Inge Borkh / Hertha Topper / Kieth Engen / Lorenz Fehenberger / Choir of the Bayerischen Radio / Orchesra of the Bayerischen Radio / Rafael Kubelik — Deutsche Grammophon Stereo 138 984/85:

One of the important releases of the year, this is the first stereo "Gurre Lieder." It replaces easily the mono version on Vox, and compacts the music down to two discs as opposed to the previous three.

This work, which demands gigantic musical forces, might be loosely described as an oratorio, but further from the Handelian style it could not be. This is pre-12-tone Schoenberg, a composition which stretched the Romantic style to its furtherest extremes in much the same way Mahler and Wagner did.

The story is a legend about the love of King Waldemar of Denmark for the maiden Tove. A symbolic wood dove speaks of the murder of Tove by Waldemar's jealous Queen. Waldemar blasphemes against God for allowing this to happen and is summarily punished by death and a forced midnight ride together with his vassals. The horde terrorizes the peasants every night until the summer wind drives the phantoms back to their graves and invites everyone to delight in sunshine and life.

This is a live recording of one of the extremely rare performances of the Gurre Lieder, in Germany. All six soloists are superb. One of these is a speaker, for this was the first Schoenberg work to employ "Sprechgesang." The dynamic and emotional range of the music is startling; the live audience extremely quiet and the reproduction a model of naturalness.

Thank you, Deutsche Grammophon.

A HOLLAND HOUSE bar built by the home handyman can make a real contribution toward easy entertaining and lend a gracious touch to the decor. The Easi-Bild pattern is readily available.

A Gracious Touch For Entertaining

Few people fully realize that a home is actually a mirror that reflects the nature of those who live within.

A gracious home, regardless of size, inevitably houses warm-hearted people. Entertaining friends is a continual source of pleasure to those who possess the facilities required.

A real contribution to easy entertaining is the build-it-yourself Holland House Bar. Its high top opens up to provide an amazing amount of counter space.

Ingeniously designed doors hold glassware of various sizes. An impressive stock of refreshments can be stored on shelves, with ample space for ice bucket, refuse can, even a tray for corkscrews, bottle openers, swizzle sticks, etc.

The full-size pattern offered here simplifies construction. Step-by-step instructions are complete and easy to follow. No special tools or skill is required. Pattern contains a list of materials readily available at lumberyards.

Send 75 cents in coin, check or money order for Holland House Bar Pattern No. 189 to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff, N. Y., 10510. Be sure to include your Zip Code.

Today's Bright Idea—

BY JOE JONES

Instead of the small chopping boards which most of us have in our kitchens today, why not install a giant one, permanently, right at the edge of the sink?

Those little boards get lost and usually turn up in the wrong cabinet. The big board won't. It makes a handsome working surface and can be used not only for chopping, but for rolling dough, carving, and for many other uses.

The natural wood is a pleasant relief from the glistening chrome and formica which have become such an integral part of the contemporary kitchen.

The boards come in a variety of sizes, from 18 inches by 22 inches, to 48 inches by 58 inches. One and one half inches thick, they are usually made of laminated maple. Look for them at lumber-and-millwork yards or at places that sell butchers' supplies.

Fasten it to the counter with a strong glue. Sand it when it needs it.

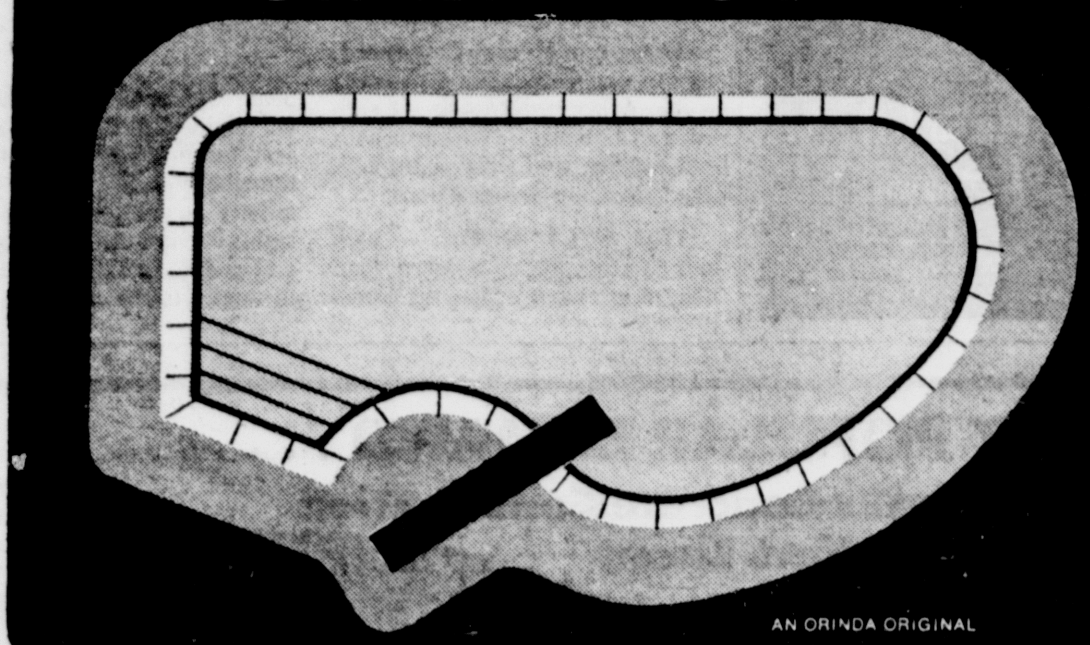
a new concept from ORINDA POOLS



ORINDA HAS BEEN BUILDING POOLS IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA FOR OVER TEN YEARS.

Orinda Pools started quite by accident, the founder, Don Doughty, a registered engineer, decided to build his own pool because he wanted his pool engineered and handcrafted in a special way. The word of his special talents traveled about to such a degree that Orinda Pools was founded to keep up with the demand.

In the succeeding years Don and his staff of designers and pool craftsmen built over 1,200 swimming pools in the bay area . . . and Don is called upon to do consulting work for pool builders and pool equipment manufacturers all over the United States.

NEW CONCEPT IN FILTRATION—Our filtration system was designed for extra long filter cycle with simple fingertip control for easy filter cleaning, first in the industry. And the water is filtered cleaner than the water you drink, proof that Orinda has a quality deal for you.

NEW CONCEPT IN POOL ACCESSORIES—The world's largest manufacturer of swimming pool equipment has created elegant design in diving boards, diving towers, ladders, steps, handrails, pool lites and many other pool appointments to grace your new Orinda pool. Another reason why Orinda Pools has customer acceptance—why you save money when you deal with Orinda.

NEW CONCEPT IN POOL PURCHASING—Call Orinda now, our representative will handle all of the design and planning—make you a real deal—and if you desire, arrange for easy terms . . . and you can still get last year's low interest Bank rates.

You Can Plant Shade Now For Summers Ahead

Shade, as you may have noticed, is something you think about only on a hot day.

Which explains why few of us plant shade trees during winter when the garden books say we should. Shade in winter? Who could care less?

One definitely thinks of shade during August, however, and there's no reason not to plant it while both the thought and the weather are warm. Waiting for the winter planting season once again might only result in another summer without shade.

CHECKING WITH the California Assn. of Nurserymen this week, we discover that most deciduous shade trees and all the evergreens are available in nursery containers. Transfer these to your garden, water them generously through summer and fall and you'll be surprised at how much growth they will put forth by summer of next year.

There's no doubt you'll be ahead of the game by planting now instead of waiting for winter.

What, then, to plant? Our choice is complicated by the wide variety available to California gardeners.

The following is offered only as a general guide, and a nurseryman should be consulted before the final choice is made.

CERTAINLY ONE or another of the Ash family should be considered when medium to dense shade is desired. The evergreen Shamel Ash is faster growing than its deciduous cousins and may be planted where the need for winter sun is not important.

A terrific new form of this tree, the Tomlinson Ash, has won high praise from nurserymen for its handsome pyramidal shape and modest growth habit. Tomlinson Ash is especially well adapted to parkway or patio planting, as the root system will not push adjacent concrete paving out of place.

Where winter sun is desired, one of the deciduous Ash trees —the Ariza Ash or its closely related Modesto Ash are both outstanding and proven through the years by homeowners.

THE SYCAMORES — both our California Sycamore and the more widely planted European Sycamore—are outstanding shade trees. The native is seen more in Southern California than here in the north, its tall, silvery trunks being familiar sights in domesticated gardens and wild foothill areas alike through much of the south-central and southern part of the state.

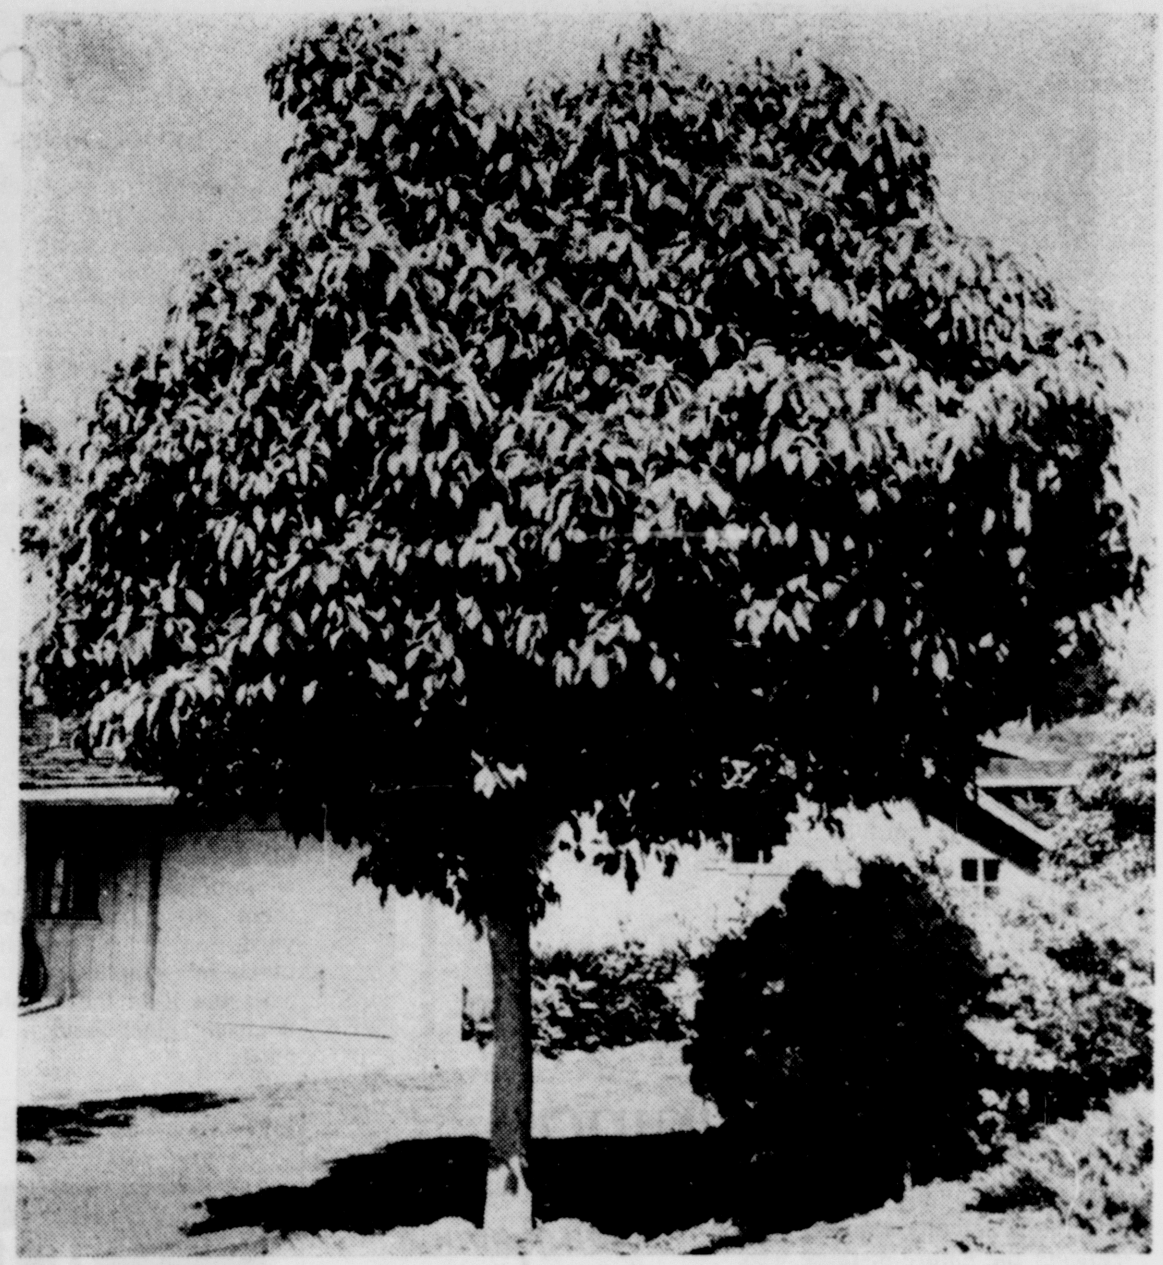
The European Sycamore is more pyramidal and domesticated enough to be planted along streets in downtown areas, which it often is. It goes also by the name of London Plane Tree.

Both make lovely, filtered shade.

THE CAMPHOR TREE is not recommended for small gardens, but where space permits, it makes a handsome evergreen, spread.

This is a good tree for parkway planting where its dense, rounding head provides all the shade one wants for that area. In spring, the new growth is decidedly bronzy and all the more attractive for it. A good choice where a shaded street is desired.

We have so many more to choose from — the Oaks, both evergreen and deciduous, any of several Eucalyptus, the Tulip Tree, Southern Magnolia or the more modest Saint Mary's Magnolia, Monterey Pine, and that modest but attractive shade giver, the Olive Tree. One could go on and on.



THE CAMPHOR TREE is a highly decorative and useful favorite in California that provides a rounding canopy of light green leaves which are tinged with bronzy-red hues in spring as the new growth starts. Not a tree for small gardens, it makes its best contribution as a street tree. (Photo courtesy of California Assn. of Nurserymen)

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Dahlias thrive on water and food. Water them well every four or five days and feed them about once every three weeks.
- Plant chrysanthemums from nursery containers if you failed to start them earlier. No need to miss out on their wonder fall show.
- Roses should be fed lightly in early August and watered heavily to insure another surge of bloom.
- Daffodils may be lifted when the tops have died back. Set them aside in a cool, dry place for replanting in September. Divide them only if the bulbs seem to be falling apart naturally.
- Trim hedges wider at the base than at the top. This practice exposes the base of the plants to sunshine and keeps them green with new growth.

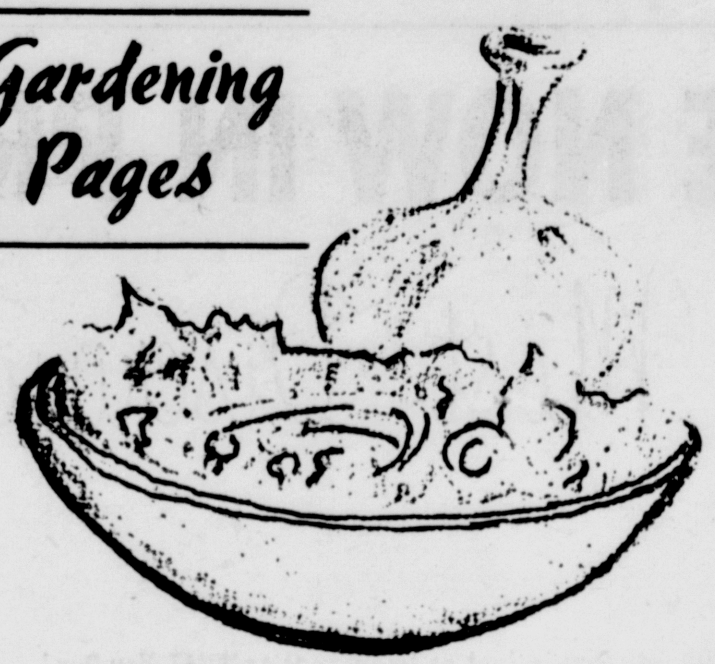
Growing For The Gourmet

Gardening Pages



A small herb garden makes only a minor change in your landscape, but it can make a major difference in your way of life. For to garden with herbs is to cultivate the better life.

Herbs may be grown in a separate bed by themselves, in pots or other containers, as edgings to a flower bed or mixed in with other plants in the annual - perennial border. If your primary interest is in cooking, the pot or separate maintenance methods are recommended.

If you are a gardener-cook who appreciates both the culinary and ornamental qualities of herbs, you'll want to make use of them in the landscape.

MANY HERBS, especially such perennials as sage, rosemary and thyme can be highly useful border plants. Annuals such as summer savory and chervil can be incorporated into flower beds as edgings or backgrounds, as can the biennial parsley, which makes an exceptionally fine edging.

There was a time when most herbs had to be grown from seed, but increased interest in herb gardening has brought a change in that. Today, most herbs are available as pot or container plants from nurserymen. These transplant easily to the garden or to larger pots, and may be used by impatient cooks from the day they are brought home.

Herb culture is the easiest.

THEY ARE pest-free and tolerant of most soils, though most of them prefer a soil slightly on the alkaline side. Their primary need is water in roughly the same quantity that makes any garden flower thrive.

The perennial herbs should be cut back to renew them at least once a year, but the annuals can be let alone unless they overgrow their bounds. When they've matured and flowered, their leaves can be dried and stored for winter use.

More Green Thumbers Are Growing Their Own Edibles

If you began to raise fruits, herbs and vegetables in the last few years you joined a growing garden group. The reason generally is money.

A study sponsored by a garden tool company indicated that the number of home gardens devoted to edible products climbed from 10 per cent to 32 per cent in a few years.

The average gardener reported spending $34.50 on his vegetable and fruit garden and getting back at least $4.75 for every dollar spent. His return will mount as prices climb.

For every hour a person works in his garden, the survey showed, the gardener realizes a net return of $2 to $5, plus fun, satisfaction and exercise.

Those interviewed also said home-grown produce had more flavor and quality than that bought in stores.

Women Who are Most Discriminating Come to Bellach's...

WHERE You Buy is Just as Important as WHAT You Buy!

What is the measure of real quality? Is it exterior beauty . . . brilliant colors . . . sophisticated design? Or does it lie on a foundation of fine cabinet woods, beautiful fabrics, and expert craftsmanship? Quite often exterior beauty is not always an indication of true value — it may disguise inferior craftsmanship and materials. But at Bellach's beauty goes far below the surface to the finest underlying construction that guarantees long-lasting charm and comfort. Whatever you choose, whatever you pay, you will have full confidence that your selection will lend years of enjoyment to your living. Ever since Western man turned to one God to explain the world, belief in Him has been haunted by doubt and the burning questions "Who is God and why should I believe in Him?" Now in the rapidly changing world, skepticism surrounding the belief in a supernatural God has pressed modern man to ponder an even more troubling question: "Is God Dead?" This question is the title of the one-hour special to be seen at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

The mass murder of eight girls in Chicago, the racial disorders in Cleveland and Chicago, recent Supreme Court rulings and the administrator's civil rights bill are among the topics Atty. Gen. Nicholas B. Katzenbach will discuss on "Issues and Answers" at 1:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

Two southern Republican congressmen seeking the governorships of their states, Rep. James D. Martin of Alabama and Rep. Howard H. Callaway of Georgia, will be the guests on "Meet the Press" at 1 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Changes in the "Articles of Faith" for the Presbyterian Church will be discussed by three prominent religious leaders on "Lamp Unto My Feet" on Channel 5 at 8 a.m.

Fess Parker plays host to Rudolph Nureyev and Svetlana Beriosova, stars of the British Royal Ballet, and Millicent Martin on "The London Palladium Show" at 10 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4.

Brigitte Bardot, Alan King, Wayne and Shuster, Leslie Uggams, the King Family and the Four Seasons are the guest headliners on "The Ed Sullivan Show" at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

Rita Hayworth, Anthony Franciosa and Gig Young star in "The Story on Page One," a suspense drama written and directed by Pulitzer Prize playwright Clifford Odets, on "The Sunday Night Movie" at 9 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

Joseph Cotten and Merle Oberon star in "Lydia," the story of an elderly lady and four of her lost loves, who, during a reunion, become caught in the magic spell of their romantic past. It will be the "Premiere" movie on Channel 2 at 7:30 p.m.

Bland Television For Children Frets Levenson

By CYNTHIA LOWERY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television took humorist Sam Levenson out of the New York public school system — but show business obviously failed to take the teacher out of Levenson.

Father of a teen-age child, Levenson frets about the relationship of television and school, and winds up being critical of parents, pedagogues and commercial broadcasting.

"IN 100 YEARS of free compulsory education we have never prepared most children to be readers and thinkers," Levenson says without his familiar beaming smile. "We have laid a big fat egg in turning out millions of kids who just want to be amused."

Levenson believes that it is essential for the public schools to "teach kids to watch television."

"Why don't all the schools supply the students with 'preferred viewing lists?' " he asked. "Television supplies its own teachers for the children — the ones who want them to buy something. And, to me, the sad truth is that the schools, which have something exciting to sell, don't know how to do it as well as television does."

LEVENSON, surprisingly, does not worry about violence.

"I don't think TV breeds violence," he continued with considerable fire. "I think it breeds passivity. When kids see real violence, it seems like something they've seen on a TV screen, and instead of reacting to it they just watch quietly and wait for the commercial, knowing that it will turn out all right in the end with the good guys winning."

The evil in television, as Levenson sees it, is that practically the sole motivation in viewing is amusement.

"DOES THE industry-commercial television have a right only to amuse?" he asked. "Maybe they have. But on the other hand, I as a father, have the right to refuse to let them educate my children."

Levenson may be disturbed by TV's incidental role in children's education, but the record indicates that the past of elementary school children has grown more sophisticated over a 15 year period.

In a study by Paul Witty of Northwestern University made before the advent of "Batman" it was found that the most popular children's shows last year were "The Man from UNCLE," "Bewitched," "Shindig," "The Addams Family," "Bonanza" and "My Favorite Martian," every one, it should be noted, produced for the family audience, not particularly for young children.

Fifteen years ago the five favorite programs were "Crusader Rabbit," "Hopalong Cassidy," "Wild Bill Hickok," "Howdy Doody," the "Uncle Mistletoe," all designed for the very young.
